Stout Institute Now Property of the State.

After a thorough inspection of every department of the school and the examination of the various deeds transferring the title, the new State Board of Industrial Education on Sept. 8 has adopted a resolution which gives to the state the control of Stout Institute at Menomonie. The transfer was made without in any way disturbing the existing manner of conducting the school. The board re-elected L. D. Harvey president and other faculty members to their present positions. Speaking of the good will which marked this important step in the history of education in the state, "The Dunn County News" said in part:

"The utmost harmony of action and good will toward the past management of the institution were manifest during the stay here of the members of the board. All expressed surprise and admiration at the splendid condition in which everything was found. The labor members of the board were especially impressed with the extensive and magnificent equipment of the institution and were unqualified in their praise."

The new industrial board which accepted the institute for the state, and which is at the head of the proposed system of industrial education especially provided for by the legislature of 1911, consists of H. P. Miller, chairman, Supt. C. P. Quay, Paul L. B. Reber, and Prof. F. D. Lounsbury of Menomonie; Mart Malone of Oshkosh, W. M. Miller of Eau Claire; Miss Donna Dines of Milwaukee; L. E. Wirth of Marshfield; and August Lindeman of Milwaukee.

MEET DEATH AT R. R. CROSSING

Thirteen persons were killed at a railroad crossing accident near Neenah early Sunday morning when a North Western train struck a hayrack loaded with men and horses that were returning from a dance. Nine others were seriously injured.

Thirty young people who were returning from a dance were singing, as the big hay rack was pulled up a slight incline to the North Western crossing a mile south of the station. The next instant the speeding North Western passenger train had ploughed through the rear end of the hay rack wagon, and twenty-two of the thirty occupants of the wagon were scattered 300 feet along the railroad right of way dead or dangerously hurt.

When the train was brought to a stop a terrible view presented itself to the survivors of the hay rack and the passengers on the train. The dead were frightfully mangled. The capitated bodies were scattered along the right of way and six corpses were removed from the engine pilot.

The bodies of the dead and injured were taken to Neenah hospital and a temporary morgue where hundreds of relatives all day Sunday clamored for information of their loved ones.

The victims of the accident were mostly all laborers of the paper mills and wooden ware factory of Menomonie. One lived in Chicago and two were from Oshkosh.

None of the victims realized that the train was approaching except the driver, and he thought it was a great distance away. One young lady said to an interview: "We had horse blankets wrapped around us because of the cold, and were cuddled close together. I heard a series of whirring noise and then came the crash. I felt myself hurled out of the rack and then everything turned black."

The railroad claim department rushed a special train containing its representatives to the scene, arriving a few hours after the time of the accident. It will be difficult to fix the blame as the train is a fast one and never slows at that crossing. Mrs. and her husband were the occupants of the rack from obtaining a clear view of the track. The driver, Peter Thron, a farmer near Neenah, was the only one not stunned when the train struck.

The regular weekly band concert will be given on Friday evening, weather permitting.

Linwood Boy Shot.

Seventeen Point Journal. Lorenzo Whitman, a young man about 20 years old living in the town of Linwood, was shot by Raymond Mink on Thursday evening. Whitman was a long past the house when Mink was standing in his own yard. Whitman was shot in the chest with a .38 caliber revolver. He died only one hour from a distance of about 4 feet. The bullet taking effect in Whitman's left leg about four inches below the hip. Up to this time not a word had been spoken by either of the men. In the darkness it was impossible to recognize anyone, but Whitman knew his assailant as he is a man of large stature and was in his own yard.

Calling to Minkman not to shoot again, Whitman started toward the house. As he reached the building Minkman ordered him to stop, threatening to shoot again if he moved. He then fired a shot which hit Whitman in the chest. Whitman, however, and called upon Mink for help. At this point Minkman ran to and himself helped to bind up the wound made by the bullet. He said that he did not want to shoot Whitman but intended the bullet for a neighbor whom he thought was stealing from him. He did not seem greatly perturbed over the fact that he had nearly ended the life of an innocent man.

He went for someone to take Whitman into the city and returned with Dr. J. H. Wood. The latter brought Mr. Whitman to the office of Dr. C. von Neupert, Jr. where the wound was dressed. He was then taken to the Ben Hotel arriving there about 11 o'clock that morning.

Sherriff Guyard arrested Minkman and brought him to the city about 9 o'clock that morning. In explaining the occurrence to the sheriff Minkman said that he had been bothered by different people stealing produce from his garden and farm under cover of darkness and on Thursday evening he fired several shots at random with the intention of scaring any possible thieves away. When Whitman passed he thought he heard a sound, and fired in that direction. He was not aware he had hit anyone and when he saw the young man approaching the house he fired again, and said: "Get out of here or I'll burn a hole clean through you." Whitman had worked for Minkman some time and was recognized by Minkman and the latter did what he could for him, bandaging the wound and getting food and water.

Minkman was arraigned in the county court this afternoon. District Attorney Nelson appearing for the state and Fisher Hanna & Chas. for the defendant. He is charged with maliciously, unlawfully and intentionally pointing a pistol towards Lorenzo Whitman and his baggage the same, maiming and injuring the said Whitman. To this charge the defendant pleaded not guilty and the preliminary examination was adjourned to Sept. 29. His bail was fixed at $500 which he no doubt will be able to furnish. Minkman is about 30 years old.

This afternoon at the Bruce hotel Dr. von Neupert, assisted by Dr. Rice, probed the young man's leg for the bullet but was unable to locate it.

Cranberry House Burned.

A. J. Bennett, chairman of the anti-burn league, was in the city on Monday and reported the loss of his largest cranberry house, which was struck by lightning, during the storm at about six o'clock Saturday evening. There were about fifty men pickers in the house at that time eating supper but none of them were hurt. As soon as the building was struck Mr. Bennett started for the building with some fire extinguishers which he had in the house but on reaching the second floor it was found impossible to do any good as the entire room was on fire. The lightning having run along the banks which were filled with straw and hay and spread rapidly. They were able to save some of the furniture on the first floor, and by hard work were able to save an adjoining building. The loss to Mr. Bennett will be considerable as he carried fire insurance and the building was located on over 30 feet square with an addition.

The members of the Salvation Army are going to shake the dust of Grand Rapids from their feet and to leave to pursue peace. The officers who have had charge of the Army at this place during the past few months say that they have made every effort in their power to save this place from the ravages of the "army" but they have allowed themselves to be deceived and to be the victim of a large town. Another thing that has made it rather discouraging to them is that the people of this city have not shown any disposition to respond in a financial way as they should. The consequence being that the Army has had to support itself.

MEET DEATH AT R. R. CROSSING

Thirteen persons were killed at a railroad crossing accident near Neenah early Sunday morning when a Northwestern train struck a hayrack loaded with merry-makers that were returning from a dance. Nine others were seriously injured.

Thirty young people, who were returning from a dance, were singing as the big hay rack was pulled up a slight incline to the North-Western crossing, a mile south of the station. The next instant the speeding Northwestern passenger train had ploughed through the rear end of the big farm wagon, and twenty-two of the thirty occupants of the wagon were scattered 200 feet along the railroad right of way dead, dying or dangerously hurt.

When the train was brought to a stop a terrible view presented itself to the survivors of the hay rack and the passengers on the train. The dead were frightfully mangled. Decapitated bodies were scattered along the right of way and six corpses were removed from the engine pilot.

The bodies of the dead and injured were taken to Neenah hospitals and a temporary morgue, where hundreds of frantic relatives called all day Sunday clamoring for information of their loved ones.

The victims of the accident were mostly all laborers of the paper mills and wooden ware factory of Neenah. One lived in Chicago and two were from Oshkosh.

None of the victims realized that the train was approaching except the driver, and he thought it was a great distance away. One young lady said to an interviewer, "We had horse blankets wrapped around us because of the cold, and were cuddled close together. I heard a sort of whirring noise and then came the crash. I felt myself hurled out of the rack, and then everything turned black."

The railroad claim department rushed a special train containing its representatives to the scene, arriving a few hours after the time of the accident. It will be difficult to fix the blame, as the train is a fast one and never slows at that crossing. Mist and fog prevented the occupants of the rack from obtaining a clear view of the track. The driver, Peter Hanson, a farmer near Neenah, was the only one not stunned when the train struck.

Monagan was arraigned in the county court this afternoon, District Attorney Nelson appearing for the state and Fisher, Hanna & Cashin for the defendant. He is charged with maliciously, unlawfully and intentionally pointing a pistol towards Lorenzo Whitman and discharging the same, maiming and injuring the said Whitman. To this charge the defendant pleaded not guilty and the preliminary examination was adjourned to Sept. 29. His bail was fixed at $500 which he no doubt will be able to furnish. Monagan is about 40 years old.

This afternoon, at the Bruce hotel, Dr. von Neupert, assisted by Dr. Rice probed the young man's leg for the bullet, but was unable to locate it.

Linwood Boy Shot.

Stevens Point Journal.—Lorenzo Whitman, a young man about 20 years old, living in the town of Linwood, was shot by Raymond Monagan in front of the latter's home at about 8:45 Thursday evening. Whitman was walking past the house alone, when Monagan, who was standing in his own yard, opened fire with a .38 revolver. He fired only one shot, the bullet taking effect in Whitman's left leg, about four inches below the hip. Up to this time not a word had been spoken by either of the men. In the darkness it was impossible to recognize anyone, but Whitman knew his assailant as he is a man of large stature and was in his own yard.

Calling to Monagan not to shoot again, Whitman started toward the house. As he neared the building, Monagan ordered him to stop, threatening to shoot again if he touched his foot inside the house. Whitman entered, however, and called upon Mrs. Medd for help. At this point Monagan came in, and himself helped to bind up the wound made by the bullet. He said that he did not want to shoot Whitman, but intended the bullet for a neighbor, whom he thought was stealing from him. He did not seem greatly perturbed over the fact that he had nearly ended the life of an innocent man. He went for someone to take Whitman into this city, and returned with Ed Frost of Linwood. The latter brought Mr. Whitman to the office of Dr. C. von Neupert, Jr., where the wound was dressed. He was then taken to the Bruce hotel, arriving there about 1 o'clock this morning.

Sheriff Guyant arrested Monagan and brought him to the city about 9 o'clock this forenoon. In explaining the occurrence to the sheriff, Monagan said that he had been bothered by different people stealing produce from his garden and farm, under cover of darkness, and on Thursday evening he fired several shots at random, with the intention of scaring any possible thieves away. When Whitman passed he thought he heard a sound, and fired in that direction. He was not aware he had hit anyone, and when he saw the young man approaching the house ordered him away, and said: "Get out of here or I'll bore a hole clean through you." Whitman, who had worked for Monagan, came closer and was recognized by Monagan, and the latter did what he could for him, bandaging the wound and getting assistance.

Monagan was arraigned in the county court this afternoon, District Attorney Nelson appearing for the state and Fisher, Hanna & Cashin for the defendant. He is charged with maliciously, unlawfully and intentionally pointing a pistol towards Lorenzo Whitman and discharging the same, maiming and injuring the said Whitman. To this charge the defendant pleaded not guilty and the preliminary examination was adjourned to Sept. 29. His bail was fixed at $500 which he no doubt will be able to furnish. PROGRESS IN THE AUTO BUSINESS

During the past week considerable progress has been made in the work of rounding up subscriptions for the new automobile factory, although there is yet a considerable amount of money to be obtained.

A meeting of the prospective stockholders was held at the Amusement hall on Monday evening and some discussion indulged in and it was reported that a total of $60,000 had been subscribed. As this amount falls considerably short of the sum necessary to organize the new company, those present were invited to loosen up and the subscription paper was circulated among them again and four thousand more was taken up.

During the past week Messrs. Crowe and McIntyre have had their model car here and most of the citizens have looked it over that cared to do so. It is a nice looking car of the runabout type, four cylinder engine, sliding gear transmission, 30 inch wheel base and other features that are thoroughly up to date. The model car is a left hand drive with center control, but the steering wheel can be put on either side, as may be decided on later.

The car at $850 should be a winner, and there is no reason to think that it would be necessary to confine it to this amount in order to make it go. It is as good a looking car as many on the market that sell for double the money and apparently has plenty of power for all practical purposes.

The committee appointed to look over the car found it to be all that it was represented to be and reported to that effect.

Death of Mrs. Jacobson.

The remains of Mrs. Lom Jacobson, wife of Christ Jacobson arrived in this city on Tuesday from Great Falls, Mont., where Mrs. Jacobson died the previous Friday from heart trouble.

Deceased was 61 years of age and is survived by her husband and a large family of children, the only ones in this city being J. O. and Martin Jacobson. C. O. Jacobson of Landa is also one of the children.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from the home of J. O. Jacobson, Rev. Pense to conduct the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson formerly lived in Grand Rapids, having come here forty years ago, and for a number of years conducted a boarding house that stood where the D. D. Conway residence is now located.

About a year and a half ago they went to Great Falls, Mont., to make their home with one of their children, where they have since resided.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

—The cleanest, the easiest to care for. Users of coal must remember that the ordinary heater is a big one to operate. That its smoke and ashes entail dusting, out-train washing and carpet sweeping. Think then of the easy operation and the cleanliness of Cole's Hot Blast. This heater has a guaranteed smoke-proof feed door through which a current of air draws the smoke directly across the top of the stove to the stove pipe, away from the opening. Contrast this simple, cleanly feed with the side door in an ordinary heater. Side doors used on other stoves permit the escape of dirty smoke, unpleasant gases and accumulated soot drops from it. If you over-fill a side door stove, coal falls to the floor. The air tight feature embodied in Cole's Hot Blast Heater is an everlasting advantage in its favor. Allow us to show you this perfect heater before you buy.

Wm. Bohmsch who carries the mail on R. D. No. 1, lost his Maxwell runabout Monday morning by the machine catching fire and burning before anything could be done to save it.

The machine is a two cylinder Maxwell car that Mr. Bohmsch has been using on the mail route during the past three seasons and had been running in good shape up to the time it went wrong, and Mr. Bohmsch is unable to account for the trouble.

The burning occurred near Meadown station and all that Mr. Bohmsch was able to save of the outfit was the tools, the woodwork burning from the car and causing it to become pretty much of a wreck. Mr. Bohmsch carried an insurance of $400.

Child Breaks a Leg.

The five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blank sustained a severe injury on Tuesday afternoon, the result of which was that one of her legs was broken in two places.

The little girl was playing on the back porch when she slipped and fell, striking on the stones on the beach below a distance of about thirty feet. A surgeon was called who reduced the fractures and the little girl has since been getting along all right. Everything considered, it was very lucky that the child was not killed outright by the fall.

Death of Mrs. Clotus Crotteau.

She was the mother of Oscar Crotteau, who is employed in the Johnson & Hill store in this city. At this writing the arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

Cranberry House Burned.

A. B. Bennett, chairman of the county board, was in the city on Monday and reports the loss of his largest cranberry house, which was struck by lightning during the storm at about six o'clock Saturday evening. There were about fifteen pickers in the house at that time eating supper, but none of them were hurt. As soon as the building was struck Mr. Bennett started for the building with some fire extinguishers which he had in the house, but on reaching the second floor it was found impossible to do any good as the entire room was on fire, the lightning having run along the bunks which were filled with straw and hay and spread rapidly. They were able to save some of the furniture on the first floor, and by hard work were able to save an adjoining building. The loss to Mr. Bennett will be considerable as he carried no insurance and the building was a good one, over 50 feet square with an addition.

Will Leave The City.

The members of the Salvation Army are going to shake the dust of Grand Rapids from their feet and hide themselves to pasture new. The gentlemen who have had charge of the Army at this place during the past few months say that he has made every effort in his power to save the people of Grand Rapids, but up to date but few of them have allowed themselves to be saved and he is of the opinion that he could do better in a larger town. Another thing that has made it rather discouraging is the fact that the people of this city have not shown any disposition to respond in a financial way as they should, the consequence being that the Army has not been self supporting.

Linwood Boy Shot.

Stevens Point Journal.—Lorenzo Whitman, a young man about 20 years old, living in the town of Linwood, was shot by Raymond Monagan in front of the latter's home at about 8:45 Thursday evening. Whitman was walking past the house alone when Monagan, who was standing in his own yard, opened fire with a .38 revolver. He fired only one shot, from a distance of about 35 feet, the bullet taking effect in Whitman's left leg, about four inches below the hip. Up to this time not a word had been spoken by either of the men. In the darkness it was impossible to recognize anyone, but Whitman knew his assailant as he is a man of large stature and was in his own yard.

Calling to Monagan not to shoot again, Whitman started toward the house. As he neared the building, Monagan ordered him to stop, threatening to shoot again if he touched his foot inside the house. Whitman entered, however, and called upon Mrs. Meld for help. At this point Monagan came in, and himself helped to bind up the wound made by the bullet. He said that he did not want to shoot Whitman, but intended the bullet for a neighbor, whom he thought was stealing from him. He did not seem greatly perturbed over the fact that he had nearly ended the life of an innocent man. He went for someone to take Whitman into this city, and returned with Ed Frost of Linwood. The latter brought Mr. Whitman to the office of Dr. C. von Neupert, Jr., where the wound was dressed. He was then taken to the Bruce hotel, arriving there about 1 o'clock this morning.

Sheriff Guyard arrested Monagan and brought him to the city about 9 o'clock this forenoon. In explaining the occurrence to the sheriff, Monagan said that he had been bothered by different people stealing produce from his garden and farm, under cover of darkness, and on Thursday evening he fired several shots at random, with the intention of scaring any possible thieves away. When Whitman passed he thought he heard a sound, and fired in that direction. He was not aware he had hit anyone, and when he saw the young man approaching the house ordered him away, and said, "Get out of here or I'll bore a hole clean through you." Whitman, who had worked for Monagan, came closer and was recognized by Monagan, and the latter did what he could for him, bandaging the wound and getting assistance.

Monagan was arraigned in the county court this afternoon, District Attorney Nelson appearing for the state and Fisher, Hanna & Chisholm for the defendant. He is charged with unlawfully, unlawfully and intentionally pointing a pistol towards Lorenzo Whitman and discharging the same, maiming and injuring the said Whitman. To this charge the defendant pleaded not guilty and the preliminary examination was adjourned to Sept. 29. His bail was fixed at $500 which he no doubt will be able to furnish. Monagan is about 40 years old.

This afternoon at the Bruce hotel, Dr. von Neupert, assisted by Dr. Rice, probed the young man's leg for the bullet, but was unable to locate it.

Child Breaks a Leg.

The five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blank sustained a severe injury on Tuesday afternoon, the result of which was that one of her legs was broken in two places.

The little girl was playing on the back porch when she slipped and fell, striking on the stones on the beach below a distance of about thirty feet. A surgeon was called who reduced the fractures and the little girl has since been getting along all right. Everything considered, it was very lucky that the child was not killed outright by the fall.

Will Leave The City. The members of the Salvation Army are going to shake the dust of Grand Rapids from their feet and lie themselves to pasture now. The gentleman who has had charge of the Army at this place during the past few months says that he has made every effort in his power to save the people of Grand Rapids, but up to date but few of them have allowed themselves to be saved and he is of the opinion that he could do better in a larger town. Another thing that has made it rather discouraging is the fact that the people of this city have not shown any disposition to respond in a financial way as they should, the consequence being that the Army has not been self-supporting.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—Your remedies have cured me. I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation. For I could hardly stand the pain in my sides, especially my right one, and down my back. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon. —Mrs. SARIE MULLIN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

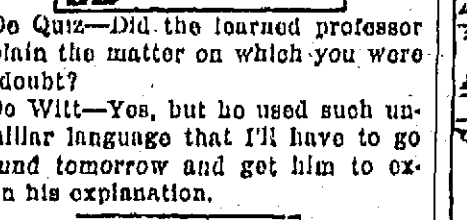

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

THE ROAD TO LEARNING.

Do Quiz—Did the learned professor explain the matter on which you were in doubt?

Do Wit—Yes, but he used such unfamiliar language that I'll have to go around tomorrow and get him to explain his explanation.

Qualified Player. Marion's mother was ill, and the aunt who took her place at the head of the household, placed the children with unaccustomed and sometimes disliked duties of diet. One day, after being compelled to eat onions, Marion refused to say grace.

"You must sit at the table until you are ready to say grace," said the aunt's stern judgment. An hour or so later, when the brilliant sunshine and impatient calls of her comrades together comprised an irresistible appeal, Marion capitulated—thus:

"Oh, Lord, make me thankful for having had to eat horrid old onions, if you can do it. But I know you can't."

A Matter of Creed. "Two men were disputing over their respective churches," says the Blar News in reviving an old story which is still good. "One was a Baptist and the other a Presbyterian. Finally one of them called a neighbor who was passing and asked his opinion as to which was the better church in which to be saved. 'Well, neighbor,' he said, 'son and I have been battling wheat for nearly twenty years. There are two roads that lead to the mill. One is the valley road and the other leads over the hill, and never yet has the miller asked me which road I came, but he always asks, 'Is the wheat good?'"—Kansas City Times.

Left Him Far Behind. Childish standards of greatness are interesting—perhaps because they are not so like us as the standards of grown folk. Many an adult, for instance, has been proud with no more reasonable basis than that which little Johnnie displayed in attempting to "top" the boasting of a juvenile comrade.

"I've got a real railroad train, with an engine that goes, and a real, live pony, and a really, truly gun, and—'That's nothing!' interrupted the lady disgusted listener. 'Once I knew a boy that set up until 11 o'clock twice in one week!'"

Too Little Ton. Smiley—that iceman down the street will have to change his name if he wishes to do any business.

Smiley—Why? What's his name? Smiley—Littleton. Some people might not notice it, but I am afraid most folks would say at a name like that on a leader's sign.

ALASKA RICH IN OIL

Wells Choked With Debris to Prevent Natural Flow.

Conflicting Interests Have Long Sought to Control the Output of Petroleum in the Khatalla District.

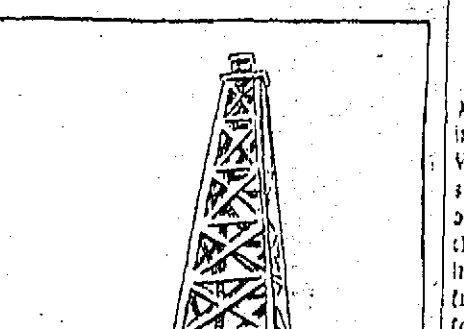

Seattle, Wash.—A strange story comes from the Khatalla region, in Alaska. Oil wells that were bored half a dozen years ago, and promised great returns in high grade petroleum, were never allowed to be come producers because of conflicting interests that were seeking to drive each other out. Recently new ownerships have prevailed, and the four principal wells near the town of Khatalla were found to be choked with scrap iron, junk, and all sorts of debris. When the lead was taken out the wells flowed 2,100 barrels of oil a day.

For two years or more the country has been discussing the Alaska oil problem, pro and con, yet scarcely a word is ever said about the oil fields which border the great northern coast areas. The country at large hardly realizes that the Alaska oil fields are the newest to be developed on the American continent.

The Khatalla belt is a strip of land along the coast of Alaska adjoining the Copper River delta, and extending off toward Mt. St. Elias. To the north is the Bering Lake coast country, and through this territory oil seepages are to be found.

The Indians of that district had no need these seepages, and had spoken of them to the traders along the coast, but it remained for Thomas Wray, a pioneer of Alaska even at that time, to make the actual discovery of petroleum. He was hunting, and on the trail of a bear, when he stumbled across one of these black pools. To assure himself that he had found oil he drew out a match, scratched it, and touched the surface of the pond. Instantly he was rewarded with proof. While made the first oil location in Alaska, and soon there was a quiet stamped to the northern territory. That was 15 years ago.

White went to Alaska in 1880. He was a member of the Laramie C. Russell geological expedition that made the first geological map of Alaska. Again he climbed the mountain with the Duke d'Abruzzi, when the Italian nobleman wanted to ascend the highest mountain on the continent. That was before the discovery of Mt. McKinley in the interior of Alaska.

A number of the early explorers organized an oil company which in turn leased to a second company—a Canadian concern—and this again leased to a third company, which finally did the well drilling. But the last company was to pay a big sum of money as soon as oil was discovered in commercial quantities.

The four wells drilled produced oil. How much the outside world did not know, because the three companies began their long struggle to "freeze" out each other. It was not long ago that a fourth company came in and got possession of the "old English" property, as it was called, and opened up the choked wells. Two tons of stuff was taken from one bore, and the oil in its exuberance at being released, carried away the top of the derrick. Then it settled down to a steady flow of 700 barrels a day. Oil, too, in two of the other wells, but it was found that when the flow was started with a pump, it continued at the same rate of its own accord.

Being so light and volatile, wood containers are useless in handling the Khatalla oil. Therefore iron and steel receptacles and conveyors were ordered, and now are being placed in position. One tank of 30,000 barrels is being erected at Idewater on Contraband bay, and two others, one of 2,000 barrels and the other of 5,000 barrels, will stand at the Idewater, about eight miles from the big loading tank. The distance is covered by an iron pipe that will deliver 1,500 barrels a day.

THIS FAMILY WITHOUT TEETH

False Molars, Used in Common by Indians Couple, Broken in a Fight.

Elwood, Ind.—It is soup, hash, and the like for the subsistence of Mary Myrtle and her aged husband now, neither being able to eat solid food, since their one set of false teeth, which they used in common, was broken in a fight between the two.

Called before the mayor to explain an attack on her helpless mother, Mrs. Myrtle said that her spouse was using the teeth when it came her time to eat supper and that he refused to give them up to her. She said that she then bit him over the head with a rolling pin. The much-used molar fell from the old man's mouth and the plate was broken.

NATIONAL RIFLE MATCHES AT CAMP PERRY

In the national rifle shoot just concluded at Camp Perry, O., the navy team won first honors, with the National Guard team a close second. The photograph shows the National Guard men firing at skirmishers. The inset is a portrait of Sgt. C. M. King of the Iowa State National Guard, who won the all-round rifle shoot championship of the United States. He lives at the little village of Waukon, Ia., and is a blacksmith by trade. The sergeant won first honors in the national individual match and also in the grand aggregate. His score was 665 hits out of a possible 600, and included slow, rapid and skirmish firing.

TUMBLES 160 FEET

"Nine-Lives Dutchie" Has Remarkably Long Fall.

Didn't Go to St. Gregory's Hospital on Account of His Injuries, but to Wait for a Second Pair of Trousers.

New York.—Follow workers in the mining trade call Dutchie Sherman, who is 60 years old, and lives at No. 200 West One Hundred and Twenty-first street, "Nine-Lives Dutchie," and his old schoolmates dubbed him "Kitty, the Human Cat," both sobriquets having to do with Sherman's ability to fall from heights varying from 10 to 100 feet without hurting himself. He himself estimates that he has had about 100 falls. But he shows himself without a scratch and is sure that he isn't going to die that way.

He fell eight stories from the S. C. & B. building, into the Brooklyn bridge, about 160 feet. But he was still the "Human Cat" of youth, for he landed on the flagstones on his feet. And it wasn't because of injuries that he went to St. Gregory's hospital. His trousers were torn and he went to the hospital to wait till another pair was sent to him. His knees were somewhat bruised and one hand lacerated.

He was standing on the outer sill of a window in the eighth story when he slipped and pitched out into the air. Cries of horror arose from those who saw him from the street and they turned their heads away to avoid the sight of seeing the man killed. But "Nine-Lives Dutchie" saw on his way down some telephone wires and he grabbed for one. He caught it, but his weight tore the wire from his grasp. However, this act broke his fall. He landed on his feet and sank to his knees. For a little while he was stunned, but when the numbness got there he was sitting up.

"I've been falling ever since I can remember," said Sherman. "I started by falling out of my high chair. When I was a boy the other boys called me 'Kitty, the Human Cat.' I was always climbing up somewhere and falling a good part of the time. I have fallen out of fruit trees about 25 times. I guess I have toppled off barns and out of haylofts about 20 times, too. I've fallen off fences about 30 times, off boats, six, and bicycles 18.

"Only two weeks ago I tumbled off the fourth story of a building and I wasn't a bit hurt. I've had so much practice that I've kind of got a knack of falling on my feet like the pussy cats do."

The human tumblebug said that during his fall he had his faculties with him all the way.

"When I started to shoot down, I kind of got a bunch that my good luck in the past wasn't going to desert me," Sherman explained. "But this was sure the biggest fall I ever got. You bet my brain was working fast."

The Duchess Was Humorous.

Paris.—A charming anecdote is going the rounds of Paris concerning a duchess well known in Parisian society for her charity. An old beggar whom the procession of vehicles going to the Grand Prix had attracted to the Champs-Élysées was given a franc by a passer-by. The old man, while testing the coin on the pavement, saw it disappear under the railings of a garden. He rang the bell and begged the footman who opened the door to look for the franc. The footman went away and, coming back after a little while, said: "Your franc has not been found. Blank dismay overclouded the beggar's face, until the footman added: 'But this has been found,' and handed the beggar a 20-franc piece. While the beggar cheerfully went on his way the charitable duchess, who had been sitting all the time within her garden, smiled at the success of her little joke.

ROOSTER MOTHERS 27 CHICKS

When Hen Elapses With Neighbor Black Minorca Cocker Takes Up Task of Scratching.

Oakland, Cal.—Deserted by his wife, who eloped with a neighbor, Henry, who makes his home with Walter E. Logan in a suburb of this city, has become both mother and father to his family of twenty-seven children.

Henry is a Black Minorca rooster. When Martha, his spouse, pitched out of the house, he was left with twenty-seven fuzzy chicks. Henry was the proudest rooster in Piedmont. But Martha soon became enamored of a neighbor's Plymouth Rock, deserted her brood and moved into the neighbor's coop.

Henry moped for a few days, but the peeps of his hungry family made him forget his own sorrows. "He became a different rooster."

Daily he scratches for worms and stands guard over his brood, lighting off adult chickens which would rob his family of his food. When bedtime comes Henry escorts his brood to a warm, moss-filled box, climbs in himself, and cuddles his family.

Cork Leg William Fatal.

Lynn, Mass.—William Green's cork leg came near being the death of him. Greene got beyond his depth while bathing and his artificial limb was so buoyant his feet flew into the air and his head was forced under water. He was saved by a college girl who was out boating with a young man. She seized Greene by his leg and held his head out of water while her escort rescued the others with Greene dragging behind the boat.

SECOND BIBLE A NECESSITY

Experienced Minister Knew What He Was Talking About When He Advised Junior.

"Now that you are married," said the experienced minister to the young curate, "you will have to stop using the church Bible for home study. Oh, yes, I know how it is. You get attached to a certain Bible, and can study better with that right under your nose, and would willingly pack it back and forth for the inspiration it affords. I've been through it. Used to do that very thing myself, but after half a dozen years and a pair of gloves and some little lacey things that I shall not attempt to specify floated down from the pulpit on Sunday mornings in view of the astonished and amused congregation, I accustomed myself to two Bibles. The women folk will put things into the Bible to press. It is a habit you can't break them of, and the first thing you know these feminine knickknacks go sailing away to humiliate you."

That night the curate turned the pages of his Bible carefully. A veil and a scrap of lace fell out. He sighed. The next day he began to cultivate an affection for a second bible.

LOT WAS IMPROVED.

A. Schaffer, who conducts a business at 2203 Larimer street, bought from M. Katchen and B. Hong the cow which caused the suit. Schaffer paid $100 for her. He charges in his suit to recover the price of the cow that the defendants guaranteed she would yield four gallons of milk per day. Instead he had obtained only half that amount. The cow, therefore, was worth only half of the price paid.

The defense told the court that the cow was ready, willing and capable of maintaining the contract capacity, but that she had not been given sufficient food. Besides the plaintiff allowed the cow to walk around too much. Quiet is essential for a cow which is expected to furnish sufficient milk and butter for a dairy. Under the circumstances, the defense said, it was the plaintiff and not the cow, who had defaulted on the contract.

The plaintiff offered to allow Justice Gavin to milk the cow for one day, to see if he was telling the truth. The justice was willing to take the man's word for it. He rendered a decision in favor of the defendants and said that the defendants were not responsible for the failure of the cow to furnish four gallons of milk.

Birds Carry Disease.

Baltimore.—Dr. Francis W. Harley, who has made experiments with pigeons whose throats are diseased, is convinced that birds can spread disease. His wife sat in a hammock several feet from her coop, and two days later contracted diphtheria from which she is now recovering. One of the pigeons was examined by the health department, which reports it has diphtheria.

ODD COLONY IN ASIA MINOR

Language and Customs of 350 Years Ago Still Preserved in Self-Exiled Russian Cossacks.

Constantinople.—One of those curious instances of quaint historical survival, of which many occur in Asia Minor, has lately come before official Russian attention in Constantinople.

It is the case of a colony of about 3,000 Russian Cossacks, settled in Anatolia, Asia Minor. The forefathers of these Cossacks left Russia for voluntary exile 350 years ago. Their departure was occasioned by an attempt to convert their names for religious purposes in writing. According to the creed of these peasants, the writing down of their names jeopardized their chance for salvation for it involved the curse of Antichrist, enabling him to seize his seal upon them.

During the while of this time, the Cossacks have kept their identity absolutely intact. They speak a Russian dialect bearing the same relation to the language of the present day as does our modern English to that of Chaucer. They wear the Russian dress of three centuries ago, and even grog, uncut, uncut elsewhere in Anatolia, to make the dishes that were the food of the medieval Russian.

A few months ago this little band of Russian exiles found themselves suddenly faced by the same danger that threatened their ancestors in the sixteenth century. The Turkish government, having to call upon its Christian subjects for military service, demanded the enrollment of those men of the community who were of age, and again they were in danger of the seal of Antichrist.

This time a split occurred among the exiles. The young men urged that, since they could not avoid enrollment, it were best to serve in Russia among their kindred, but the older members were in favor of remaining. The arbitration of the Russian consul at Constantinople was invoked, and through his agency funds were obtained from the Russian government to enable those who wished to do so to return to Russia, leaving the rest to live on a tiny ethnological island among the races of Anatolia.

Skeleton 4,900 Years Old.

St. Petersburg.—A stone coffin, containing a skeleton, of a man, and implements of the stone age, have been discovered in a cave in the Altai mountains. The character of the weapons and implements indicate that they are of a period at least 4,900 B. C., when the Altai mountains were submerged, the coffin and its contents having been lowered in a depression in the sea bed, which accounts for its wonderful preservation.

Milk Extinguishes Fire.

Troy, N. Y.—Fire the other night destroyed the residence of John Donahue, near Greenwich, N. Y. There was no water available and in order to save adjacent buildings, the farmers in the neighborhood brought thousands of gallons of milk, which was used to extinguish the flames started by flying sparks. Horse blankets soaked in the milk were spread over the roofs of several buildings.

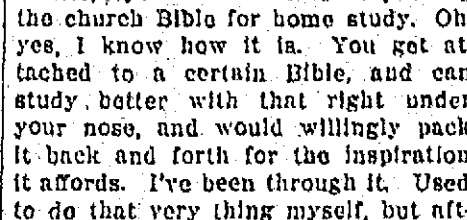

Two months ago A. C. Ogden, editor of the Wheeling News, received a letter from General Otis, who stated that the general represented the general and explained that he wanted to settle with the estate of the late Captain William Carr, manager of the hotel in those days, and it was discovered that the administrator of his estate was Mrs. Veneta O. Heron of No. 3101 Washington boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

With matters thus simplified, General Otis's account forwarded $50 in gold, square of the original account of $1,500. This money has been turned over to Plaintiff Carr, who will forward it to Carr's administrator.

Capital Carr was a physician, who moved from Virginia to Wheeling in 1859 and in 1860 conducted the McClure Hotel. About the time of the breaking out of the Civil war he moved to Chicago and died there.

SECOND BIBLE A NECESSITY

Experienced Minister Knew What He Was Talking About When He Advised Junior.

"Now that you are married," said the experienced minister to the young curate, "you will have to stop using the church Bible for home study. Oh, yes, I know how it is. You get attached to a certain Bible, and can study better with that right under your nose, and would willingly pack it back and forth for the inspiration it affords. I've been through it. Used to do that very thing myself, but after half a dozen years and a pair of gloves and some little lacey things that I shall not attempt to specify floated down from the pulpit on Sunday mornings in view of the astonished and amused congregation, I accustomed myself to two Bibles. The women folk will put things into the Bible to press. It is a habit you can't break them of, and the first thing you know these feminine knickknacks go sailing away to humiliate you."

That night the curate turned the pages of his Bible carefully. A veil and a scrap of lace fell out. He sighed. The next day he began to cultivate an affection for a second bible.

I really feel that Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life."

LOT WAS IMPROVED.

A. Schaffer, who conducts a business at 2203 Larimer street, bought from M. Katchen and B. Hong the cow which caused the suit. Schaffer paid $100 for her. He charges in his suit to recover the price of the cow that the defendants guaranteed she would yield four gallons of milk per day. Instead he had obtained only half that amount. The cow, therefore, was worth only half of the price paid.

The defense told the court that the cow was ready, willing and capable of maintaining the contract capacity, but that she had not been given sufficient food. Besides the plaintiff allowed the cow to walk around too much. Quiet is essential for a cow which is expected to furnish sufficient milk and butter for a dairy. Under the circumstances, the defense said, it was the plaintiff and not the cow, who had defaulted on the contract.

The plaintiff offered to allow Justice Gavin to milk the cow for one day, to see if he was telling the truth. The justice was willing to take the man's word for it. He rendered a decision in favor of the defendants and said that the defendants were not responsible for the failure of the cow to furnish four gallons of milk.

Birds Carry Disease.

Baltimore.—Dr. Francis W. Harley, who has made experiments with pigeons whose throats are diseased, is convinced that birds can spread disease. His wife sat in a hammock several feet from her coop, and two days later contracted diphtheria from which she is now recovering. One of the pigeons was examined by the health department, which reports it has diphtheria.

ODD COLONY IN ASIA MINOR

Language and Customs of 350 Years Ago Still Preserved in Self-Exiled Russian Cossacks.

Constantinople.—One of those curious instances of quaint historical survival, of which many occur in Asia Minor, has lately come before official Russian attention in Constantinople.

It is the case of a colony of about 3,000 Russian Cossacks, settled in Anatolia, Asia Minor. The forefathers of these Cossacks left Russia for voluntary exile 350 years ago. Their departure was occasioned by an attempt to convert their names for religious purposes in writing. According to the creed of these peasants, the writing down of their names jeopardized their chance for salvation for it involved the curse of Antichrist, enabling him to seize his seal upon them.

During the while of this time, the Cossacks have kept their identity absolutely intact. They speak a Russian dialect bearing the same relation to the language of the present day as does our modern English to that of Chaucer. They wear the Russian dress of three centuries ago, and even grog, uncut, uncut elsewhere in Anatolia, to make the dishes that were the food of the medieval Russian.

A few months ago this little band of Russian exiles found themselves suddenly faced by the same danger that threatened their ancestors in the sixteenth century. DIARY OF A FLY-KILLER.

Monday—My attention was called last night to a statement that house flies are carriers of disease and should be destroyed as soon as possible.

Tuesday—I nearly killed three flies this afternoon, but the lamp got in the way. It was a 7 lamp.

Wednesday—I saw a fly on the outside of the fly screen and raised the screen so I could hit it. Seventeen flies flew in. I missed.

Thursday—There was a sluggish-looking fly on the window with closed wings. I stole toward it cautiously, but it flew up just as I let the blow fall. Then I knew it wasn't a fly. It was a wasp. My nose began to swell at once.

Friday—My nose is a sight. Dnat the flies.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Physician Said ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING.

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery little festers under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scales. In the daytime she was quite restless and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time.

"I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the ointment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura, and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I did as I found directed in the Cuticura Book, and when she was one year old she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months old, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. (Signed) Mrs. Freeman Craver, 311 Lewis St., Syracuse, N. Y., May 6, 1911." Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 2 K, Boston.

How to Find Fault.

ADVENTURES of the WORLD'S GREAT DETECTIVES

By George Barton

The French Antique Dealer

An Episode in the Life of M. Robert, the celebrated Parisian detective.

COPYRIGHT 1911 BY W. G. CHAPMAN.

HE Rue Madame is one of the quiet streets of old Paris. It is on the left side of the river Seine. The artistically fashioned butler of the house of the aristocracy of the Rue Madame, so to speak, with new hotels and antique shops. One of the best known of these shops was kept for many years by Leon Olbert, a whimsical fellow, whose knowledge of the value of works of art was only exceeded by his inexhaustible fund of good humor.

Mary Olbert resided in the Rue Madame, and they hunted the shop of Monsieur Olbert, for he possessed the rare things of the past—the things they loved to examine and talk about, even if it implied fortune prohibited them from purchasing. Even the name of the street suggested the glories of the past, for it was given at the court of the Bourbon to the daughters of the King and the King's brother's wife.

Monsieur Olbert was a royalist at heart, and he was in his element in his little shop, filled with all sorts of antiques and visited with great consequence by his royalist neighbors. Clocks of all sizes and conditions and ages were taking up the moments that lead to eternity. And around these were mirrors that reflected the love and the hate and the fear and the ambition of men. Silver candlesticks and mahogany bureaus all were there, and Monsieur Olbert loved them every one.

One morning the gendarme who was patrolling that section of the city noticed that the door of M. Olbert's shop was ajar. He entered and found the old man seated in an armchair—dead. There was a look of peace on his face and he clasped a morning newspaper between his legs. The physician who examined the body said that he had probably died from heart disease.

But there was one doubt—Thomas, and he was M. Robert, the famous Parisian detective. M. Robert was one of the many men who had often been attracted to the shop on the Rue Madame, and he entertained a great respect for the old dealer in antiques. He felt instinctively that it was the sort of a place that a professional crook would like to rob. It was "different," and the possibilities of a rich haul were alluring. He called at the shop after the death of M. Olbert and tried to ascertain if any of the stock were missing. But alas, no one could give the required information. The old dealer knew his business by heart, but he kept it locked up in his own breast. The only catalogue of the stock was in that quaint old book that would no longer nod.

In the emergency Robert discussed himself and mingled with the friends and neighbors of the dead man. For some days he worked without results, but one night a bit of information was dropped that illuminated the situation like a flash of lightning. A group of men were seated about a table in the rear room of the shop, discussing the good qualities of the deceased.

"He could tell a piece of Chippendale at sight," said Robert, by way of making conversation.

"Yes," remarked another, "he was very successful. I have no doubt that he left a great fortune."

"And the marvelous part of it all," chimed in a third, "was the fact that he made his money without knowing how to read or write."

Robert jumped up with a cry of surprise. He hurried to the prefect of police.

"M. Olbert," he cried, "was murdered."

His superior looked at him wonderingly.

"How do you know this?" he asked, "because he could not read or write?"

"The prefect was puzzled.

"Murdered because he could not read or write?" he murmured.

"No! No!" cried the detective, with impatient eagerness. "But the positive knowledge that he could not read proves that he is a victim of foul play."

"How?"

"He was found dead with a newspaper in his hand."

A light broke in on the prefect's mind.

"I see," he said; "I see."

And indeed the two men visualized the scene. They could see the thieves killing the old man and then propping him up in the armchair, with the newspaper in his cold fingers to give the appearance of a natural death.

A second careful medical examination proved that the old man had been strangled to death. Faint blue finger marks were to be seen under the chin and near the back of the ears. Also, it was demonstrated that valuable bits of stock had been stolen from the shop. Beside this, certain bank notes remained unaccounted for. Thus, what would have passed as a natural death had now developed into a very mysterious murder.

M. Robert went at the problem with all his heart and soul. He spread out a vast police net that included the whole of Paris, but when it was hauled in it did not contain the particular fish headquarters of Paris, he received a telegram which said:

"Come down here at once. The vault in my bank has been broken open and robbed of valuable negotiable securities."

It was signed by his banker friend of the day before M. Robert responded at once, and after reaching the rural bank obtained a complete description of the stolen bonds. He expressed confidence in his ability to recover them within a reasonably short time. He returned to Paris and began the work of obtaining information concerning the securities. It was not a difficult task; indeed, M. Robert looked upon it as one of the routine features of his daily work. It did not present any intricate phases; it was simply a matter of tracing stolen property, a sort of property that could not be offered for sale without exciting suspicion. At the end of the third day Robert learned that a well-known thief, named Oscar Viard, had been in the financial quarter of the city, offering to dispose of some of the stolen securities. He started out immediately to apprehend the fellow. He went to the house where he was well known to know just where to look for such a person. The first two or three places he visited yielded no results, but finally, entering a cafe on Boulevard St. Germain, he found the man he was looking for.

He was seated at a table with some companions, just in the act of topping off an elaborate meal with a very green-looking cream de menthe. The officer slipped in quietly. He noticed that Viard had a letter in front of him. It was a mere scrap of paper. The offer touched the thief on the shoulder.

"Come, my friend," he said, "I would like to interview you at my office."

To his surprise, the thief grabbed the small scrap of paper and, crushing it up into a little ball, put it in his mouth and tried to swallow it.

The detective determined to recover that bit of paper at all hazards. He grappled with Viard, threw him on his back and then forced his jaws open by brute force. The man struggled like a mantic, but finally yielded and gave up the crumpled piece of paper. It was an undated and unsigned letter written to a thief named Blum, who was then in jail. The epistle was commonplace and apparently had no significance, but Robert had been a thief taker for too many years to permit any trifle to look like a trifle in his eyes. Viard was taken into custody and then Robert arranged his plan of campaign. First, he recovered the stolen securities; after that, which was an easy task, they were returned to the country banker, and the detective proceeded to see how much more he could develop from the circumstances that confronted him.

One morning he sent for an officer and had the prisoner Blum brought to his office. He told him to take a seat in an armchair next to the window, which overlooked a courtyard leading from one side of the police headquarters to the other. He had placed the fellow where the light fell squarely on his face. M. Robert pretended to be busily engaged at his work, but all the while he was intently watching Blum's countenance. At a given signal two uniformed men appeared and, under their hands, the country banker between them. As Blum saw his pal jumped from his chair and gave a cry of distress.

M. Robert noticed it and said to him in a tone of deep emphasis:

"Well, my friend, you see that the game is up."

Blum looked at him with terror in his eyes. He moistened his dry lips with his tongue and confessed in a stammering voice:

"The game—the game is up."

"Yes," said the detective, blithely.

He was passing away. To that would be a very dishonorable thing for the home to do, after its honorable history. Centuries. It first found itself among the Jews. Rabbi Abraham Isaac has written a good characterization of the Jewish home; and what it stood for among them is exactly what it stands for among us—religion, education and the unity of the family. We may not have to ask the Hebrews to take over our homes, but we shall have to go back to the very things that made the Jewish home the only thing of the kind in the ancient world and won a great many noble-minded Gentiles to their faith.

The home will not pass away, though it now seems that the old style of home may have gone forever. Those old things that must be in it, or it is not a home at all, are now engaged in adjusting themselves to conditions that were never encountered before, and it is because of those new conditions and the present unsettled habits of people that so many are tending to forget the old style of home. Let us face the facts without flinching. They may vitiate but cannot exterminate it. They may degrade it to a lower or regrade it to a higher level. Here are some of the elements of the old home: Specialized industry is robbing it of some of its former functions and that, in turn, is changing the family life. the dead man's hand came as a sort of inspiration to Viard. It was so clever, he thought, that he had chuckled over it many, many times during the two years that had passed. Yet, that was the one false move that had given proof of foul play and led finally to the discovery and arrest of the assassin and his accomplice.

Herding of People in Cities Makes Home Building Now Almost Impossible.

(Copyrighted by J. S. Kirtley.)

There are those who say that the home is passing away. To that would be a very dishonorable thing for the home to do, after its honorable history. Centuries. It first found itself among the Jews. Rabbi Abraham Isaac has written a good characterization of the Jewish home; and what it stood for among them is exactly what it stands for among us—religion, education and the unity of the family. We may not have to ask the Hebrews to take over our homes, but we shall have to go back to the very things that made the Jewish home the only thing of the kind in the ancient world and won a great many noble-minded Gentiles to their faith.

The home will not pass away, though it now seems that the old style of home may have gone forever. Those old things that must be in it, or it is not a home at all, are now engaged in adjusting themselves to conditions that were never encountered before, and it is because of those new conditions and the present unsettled habits of people that so many are tending to forget the old style of home. Let us face the facts without flinching. They may vitiate but cannot exterminate it. They may degrade it to a lower or regrade it to a higher level. Here are some of the elements of the old home: Specialized industry is robbing it of some of its former functions and that, in turn, is changing the family life. The home is changing, whether these functions are essential to a home or were taken on only as a temporary duty and can be dropped without loss. There was a time when almost everything was made in the home. The women spun

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Provide the hogs with a wallow.

The cement silo is growing steadily in favor.

The A-shaped pig pen is too hot for summer.

Many weeds interfere with the rotation of crops.

Silage may be cut in almost any size desired.

Watch the swill barrel. Keep it sweet and clean.

Hogs thrive much better on a ration rich in nitrogen.

There are a few who save some of their own seed from the garden.

Hogs enjoy a tank of clean water to bathe in during the hot days.

Never allow roses to remain on the bush until the petals begin to fall.

The common and cutleaf elders have proved good lawn plants this year.

One of the best foods for growing chickens is the curd from skimmed milk.

A majority of poorly formed draft horses have shoulders which are too steep.

Get a good variety of Lima and bush beans and save the first to ripen.

Too many farmers have failed to appreciate the possibilities of rye as hog pasture.

Second crop alfalfa is fine for the pig, but if pastured very closely it will soon run out.

A straw-colored open shed for the stock is a much needed thing on the treeless farm.

Some More Tainted Money.
Omaha is greatly excited over the question of acceptance by the council of $100,000 worth of property for emergency hospital purposes from Anna Wilson, long keeper of a notorious resort, who is said to be seventy-five years old, "retired" and worth a million. It's tainted property, they cry.
If it were Rockefeller offering $250,000 for a school, provided Omaha raise another $250,000, or Carnegie offered $100,000 for a library, provided another $100,000 were raised, Omaha would probably feel tainted. Yet, the business methods of these men have driven more men and women wrong than that hospital will ever hold or Anna Wilson ever saw. Sanitation of your "taint" depends much upon the sort of moral clothes you wear and the way in which you "taint" yourself.
But the Omaha taint is, clearly enough, an everyday business matter. For forty-five years, by and with the consent of Omaha, this Wilson woman conducted her place. That is to say that Omaha was her silent partner. Omaha consented to the taint. That the profits are a million shows that, for a city of its size, Omaha consented a whole lot, and it is pretty late for her to be very prudish in the matter of dividing the business profits.—Madison State Journal.

Investigate Country Schools.
It is said that country schools in Wisconsin have been deplorable and as a consequence Supt. Carey is going to investigate the matter. Among those who will assist in the work is Prof. M. H. Jackson, principal of the Wood County Normal of this city.
The information that the country schools have degenerated will be quite a shock to a good many people, as the general public has been led to think by educators in general that not only country schools, but schools in general, have made great strides in the way of improvement, and that the improvement has been in the form of a steady advancement.
Once in awhile some old fogey, who probably has not attended school for the past twenty years, has had the offortunity to make the statement that the schools are not what they were when he was a boy, but he has been laughed at and told that he was behind the times, so far behind, in fact, that he really didn't know what a school was any more, and consequently if he did not want to expose his ignorance he had better keep still on the subject. While probably not convinced, he may at least have been silenced, and thus the educators have had pretty much their own way in the matter, assisted possibly, by a few progressive citizens in each community.

A Sad Case.
Herald Herald, Rep.
The American people are humiliated at the and spectacle of their president going about the country, begging for votes. This is a new departure of American presidents. Grant, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt were re-nominated but they made no efforts to get the re-nomination. So with the presidents before the war. Never in American history has the occupant of the presidential chair so forgot the dignity of this high office as to beg for votes and go about the country and petition for votes. Not till William Howard Taft, who has disgraced the presidential office, has this humiliating spectacle been witnessed.

PITTSVILLE.
(From the Record.)
During the storm Sunday night lightning struck the Hutchins home in this city hitting the chimney and following the shingles down the roof to the clay boards on the west side of the house where, instead of entering the ground, it diffused in the air. Two of the inmates of the home were slightly shocked, M. W. Hutchins and Miss Ames. Except disturbing the shingles and siding, no damage is reported. Not a sign of fire, and strange to say, the house was not known to have been struck until next morning.

Another peculiar sample was brought in by J. E. Platts, a bean over ten inches in length, a mammoth affair. Was a Good Play.

"The Servant in the House" as presented at Daly's Theatre on Sunday evening was a good play handled in a manner that was worth seeing.

NOT IN GOOD TASTE.

Should a man go about with a suit case bearing printed notices that he had been as far away from home as California, and had been to New York more than once and stopped at a hotel charging "three dollars a day and upward" or "patronized by wealth and fashion"—or should he employ someone to announce such facts at railroad stations, or at country houses where he arrives with his luggage to spend the weekend, he would be considered "impossible." Yet this is the spirit in which label-adorned luggage is carried about by more than half of those who carry it, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. And that is why they are not only willing, but anxious, to give foreign hotels advertising space upon their trunks, boxes and bags. Straggling in red, white and green letters of having crossed the Atlantic—or the Pacific—and having been quartered at high-priced hotels while abroad is not very good taste. It may be said truly enough that many travelers professed a "kip bag" before the institution of the label advertisement, but they could at least plead modesty and assert that they did not like old luggage for its traveled appearance, but disliked new bags because of the attention they attracted. The only escape for the bearer of label-plastered baggage is to assert that he objects to the custom.

Awakening China has taken another leap from the experience book of the progressive west. She is going to establish playgrounds in her cities. It was during the recent ravages of the plague in the crowded empire that some of the more enlightened of her rulers made the observation that western civilization was free from such wide-spread destruction of life as China had witnessed, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. When they sought an explanation of the freedom of western peoples from deadly epidemics, they did not look far until they found it in the attention given to producing healthful living conditions. First of all the recent improvements they decided to set to work on the scattering of breathing spots in the cities. Now attention is to have a playground operated on the most modern of American plans. Public subscription provided for the purchase of a large tract of land, which is being fitted in such a way to meet the demands of every class of the city's population.

STOLYPIN IS DEAD

PREMIER ASSASSINATED AT OPERA HOUSE IN KIEV. CUMBERS TO WOUNDS.

HIS DEATH IS PEACEFUL

Passing of Russia's "Iron Man" Causes Jews by Thousands to Flee Country—Hundreds of Assassins' Friends Taken Into Custody.

Kiev.—Premier Peter A. Stolypin is dead from bullet wounds received at the hands of Dimitri Bogroff, a Jewish lawyer, during a gala performance at the municipal theater.

With the passing of Russia's "Iron Man" the emperor faces a situation which all the bewildering underground resources of the czar are at work to combat.

Jews, fearing a massacre more violent than any yet recorded in Russia's black history, are fleeing from the country in hordes. Hundreds left the province of Kiev immediately upon hearing of the premier's death, and as the news reaches the outlying provinces thousands of the persecuted people are crossing the borders for safety. The utmost excitement prevails in the government centers, where diligent search is being made for others of the revolutionary band of which Bogroff is believed to be a member.

Every known acquaintance of Bogroff has been arrested. More than 200 of his friends, among them many prominent lawyers, are in prison. Bogroff, plunged into mental delirium by the news of his victim's death, is furnishing the police with every detail of the circumstances leading up to his crime. He is said to have revealed the names of other high officials marked for death and extra precautions are being taken to guard these persons from assassination. Bogroff had maintained an attitude of confidence up to the time of the premier's first attack, but when told that M. Stolypin could not live the premier became despondent and talked freely of his fate.

Kiev is practically under martial law. Armed Cossacks are patrolling the streets and few of the residents venture out at night, fearing arrest as suspects. The streets about the theater where the premier died have been closed to all traffic. The secret police are alert to detect the first indication of a revolutionary uprising consequential upon the death of the man whose summary methods caused him to be violently hated and feared by the tsarists.

Almost until the last the premier was conscious, and for half an hour his wife alone was at his bedside. Toward the end, Stolypin suffered greatly. He groaned incessantly and threw himself about on the couch on which he lay. Finally the heart catch became weaker, and as the body grew cold, the premier realized that death was overtaking him. At a loud interval a priest administered extreme unction. The Metropolitan Plavian blessed and consoled him in his last moments. Frequently he called: "Give me the letter." His last words were: "I am at home. Light up."

Half an hour before his death Stolypin asked the doctors to turn him on his side. He died peacefully, surrounded by several of his relatives and state officials.

NINE KILLED BY AUTO

Fourteen Are Hurt—Car Piloted by Lee Oldfield Plunges Through Fence at Terrific Speed.

Syracuse, N. Y.—On a track which had been sprinkled for the benefit of President Taft, who had expressed a desire to make a circuit of the race course at the state fair grounds, a Cox car, driven by Lee Oldfield, slipped the tire during a race and crashed through a fence surrounding the track. The machine, which was traveling at terrific speed, plunged into a throng of onlookers, killing nine persons and injuring fourteen. The president had left the grounds before the accident.

Oldfield, who was injured, is being guarded by an officer in a city hospital, and as soon as he recovers will be arrested.

Six of the nine victims were killed outright, and three others were so badly injured that they died on the way to the hospital.

The accident happened during the forty-seventh mile of the fifty-mile race. Oldfield was a lap behind Ralph De Palma and was running even with him. Oldfield had had a bad tire on his car for over twenty-seven miles, but it did not blow out until the race was within three miles of the finish. At the time the tire exploded De Palma and Oldfield were neck and neck. They had had the spectators at terrific speed that had the turn at terrific speed in a frenzy. Then came a crash that was heard all over the field.

JUDGE GROSSCUP TO QUIT

Appellate Jurist Will Resign From Bench in October—Plans Active Public Life.

Chicago.—Peter Stenger Grosscup, judge of the United States circuit court and a member of the United States circuit court of appeals for this district, will send his resignation from the bench to President Taft early in October.

This announcement, absolutely unexpected to members of the bench and bar and to the public generally, was made by the jurist.

In a statement dictated for the press he gave the following explanation of his decision to retire:

"I wish more freedom, not only as an individual, but as a citizen. The world politically is trying to catch up with the world's radically changed economic conditions. The 'formative' period is approaching. Next year's presidential election will, I believe, be the last one on the old lines. And the settlement for the future will come not through the courts of law, but through the courts of public opinion. 'I wish no office—except never again to hold office—but I wish greater freedom than the bench gives to me on my part in this court of public opinion. 'I expect, of course, to re-enter the practice of law—an idle life would be an unhappy one—but to practice law is not too strenuous a work.'"

New Westminster, B. C.—Five master cracksmen, in flight with $315,000 in gold and bills stolen from the vault of the Bank of Montreal here, are being sought by the police, who have as yet only clues to the story of a frightful robbery.

Content with the bills of large denomination and the gold they could easily transport, they left on the watchman's bed $20,000 in gold, while to the looted vault they left $16,000, with small coins and bills scattered about. When Chong Koh, the caretaker, entered the building, and was captured, bound and gagged, the robbers had completed their work. GOING TO BE A STRIKE-OUT?

CIVIL WAR PERILS

ALL SPAIN UNDER MARTIAL LAW; TROOPS SHOOT DOWN BILBOA RIOTERS.

GENERAL STRIKE IS CALLED

Alfonso Signs Decree Suspending Constitutional Guarantees—Republican Plot Said to Have Condemned Weyler; Cities Seethe With Mob.

Madrid.—King Alfonso has signed a decree suspending the constitutional guarantees, a general railroad strike has been called, the nation is practically under martial law and the fall of the Spanish throne is threatened.

These drastic measures bring to a crisis the revolution agitation which has been fermenting for several months. In the labor strikes the government recognizes an attempt to overthrow King Alfonso and establish a republic and the measures of suppression will be taken from every corner of Spain.

Disorder is reported from every corner of Spain. The revolution is gaining headway at an alarming rate, despite the proclamation of bayonet rule. Great excitement prevails in government circles. The railroads of the country will be tied up as well as most of the manufacturing in the industrial sections. Thousands of men will be idle.

Premier Canallajas announces that the outbreak at Valencia and Barcelona were the first step in a well planned revolutionary plot, the details of which were subsequently learned by the police. The assassination of General Weyler, captain-general of Catalonia, was to have been accomplished at once and other officials were marked for death. Several of the conspirators have been arrested.

Valencia has been under martial law for two days and the city has been in a riotous tumult. The authorities gained the upper hand, but the strikers proceeded to the adjacent town of Cullera, where they murdered a judge and wounded several other officials who had been engaged in the trial of those who had been arrested.

The situation is acute at Bilbao, Saragossa, Cadix, Huelva, Seville and Orlon, where riots have occurred. A mob stormed the jail at Bilbao in an attempt to free the prisoners and their purpose was frustrated only by a volley from the troops. Twenty-six were wounded.

The execution of Professor Ferrer in 1909 is being raised as an issue by the revolutionary leaders with tremendous effect.

STRIKES IN SPAIN SPREAD

Alfonso's Throne Is Threatened by Labor Upheavals—Martial Law Proclaimed in Many Cities.

Madrid.—Anarchy reigns throughout Spain as the result of general labor upheavals in most of the large cities and the end of the monarchy is freely predicted by leaders of the near-revolution.

Martial law has been proclaimed in several cities, but there are not enough loyal troops to keep order and rioting is reported from all parts.

The revolutionary movement, which began with the general strike in Bilbao, is threatening the entire country. The railroad men are on the point of striking. The step taken by Premier Canallajas in declaring martial law in the centers of disturbance appears to have aggravated the situation.

There have been numerous clashes between troops and strikers and the encounters frequently have been marked by bloodshed, especially in Bilbao.

Augusta, Me.—Governor Plaisant and the council of state officials which checked up on the votes cast in the recent election, said their recount showed a majority of 28 for repeal of the prohibition clause of the state constitution. The result still remains as to the correctness of the returns.

Governor Plaisant announced that city and town clerks would be given 20 days to check the results. With the result standing so close, a correction in the vote in any of the several towns might be sufficient to turn the tide against repeal.

WILEY IS UPHELD

PRESIDENT OVERRULES RECOMMENDATIONS OF BOARD.

Taft's Decision Says the Broader Issues Raised May Require More Radical Action.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft made public a memorandum which completely vindicates Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, from the charges preferred against that official by a cabal in the department of agriculture and severely condemns persons responsible for the trouble to which the pure food expert has been subjected.

Mr. Taft declares his purpose to overrule the recommendation of the personnel board of the department and Attorney General Wickersham that Doctor Wiley be dismissed and concludes with this significant reference to the bureau inquiry into the charges against the chief of the chemistry bureau:

"The broader issues raised by the investigation which have a much weightier relation than this one to the general efficiency of the department, may require much more radical action than the question I have considered and decided."

This is regarded as a forecast of summary measures when the president returns to Washington in November.

In his opinion making it known that the "condemnation" for Doctor Wiley, which Mr. Wickersham held to be necessary, will not be meted out, the president voices no word of criticism for the chemist, but many a word of praise. There is no indication in it that Mr. Taft feels any "general" disapproval of his recommendations. He explains that Mr. Wickersham's findings in the case were made with less complete data than that before him when he took it up.

JOHNSON RAILROADED, IS CRY

Confessed Slayer of Madison (Wis.) Girl Is Innocent in Opinion of Sheriff.

Madison, Wis.—That John A. Johnson was railroaded to the penitentiary for the murder of Annie Lemberger is the belief of thousands of Madison people, who are demanding that the case be reopened. Sheriff Brown, who took Johnson to prison, stated that in his opinion the Lemberger case is not yet solved and that Johnson is not the murderer. He intimated that other arrests may be made.

The sheriff and the police are still making an investigation in the vicinity of the Lemberger home in the hope that they will be able to find the missing link in the case.

It is reported that the Lemberger girl was insured for $200 and that this amount was recently increased to $500.

UNIVERSITY PLANS MORE BUILDINGS

College to Spend Over $50,000 in Construction Work.

WOMEN TO HAVE DORMITORY

Home Economics Structure and Addition to the Library Will Be Built—Wing to Gymnasium Is Provided.

Madison.—A dormitory for women students, a building for home economics and university extension work, an agricultural chemistry building and an annex to the army are included in the building program of the University of Wisconsin for the next year. Much of the work will be under way before winter. The buildings will conform in location and style as much as possible to the general scheme of the university's future.

The building plan is marked by handsome provision for women students. Chief of these structures will be a new dormitory capable of accommodating 150 students, to be built on University avenue, between Chadbourne and Lathrop halls and having a front facing Park street. It will be connected by passageways with both Chadbourne and Lathrop halls. Its cost will be $150,000. The home economics building will cost $115,000 and will have a site east of Agricultural hall, facing south on London drive. It will be three stories high. The university extension work will be centered in this structure. The agricultural chemistry building will be erected on University avenue opposite the forest products laboratory, facing south and in line with the agronomy building. An auditorium seating 500 persons will be a feature. The cost will be $100,000. The addition to the main chemistry building will be on the west side of that building, facing Charter street. For this work there is an appropriation of $70,000.

The annex to the army and gymnasium will be on the east side of the building, one story high and the same length as the building. It will house various games of the students. It will have a running track 12 feet wide, with 12 laps to the mile, and space for indoor baseball, handball and other sports. The first floor of the present gymnasium will be remodelled and new lockers installed. The main floor will be reserved for military drills and gymnastics will be conducted solely in the cage on the top floor. Work will begin soon.

Bids have been advertised for construction of the new wing to the State Historical Library, which will cost $105,000. Additional stock room for 150,000 books will be provided, and the state museum will receive more room as a result.

Some More Tainted Money.

Omaha is greatly excited over the question of acceptance by the council of $100,000 worth of property for emergency hospital purposes from Anna Wilson, long keeper of a notorious resort, who is said to be seventy six years old "retired" and worth a million. It's tainted property, they say.

If it were Rockefeller offering $250,000 for a school, provided Omaha raise another $250,000, or Carnegie offering $100,000 for a library, provided Omaha would probably feel untainted. Yet, the business methods of these men have driven more men and women wrong than that hospital ever held or Anna Wilson ever saw. Sanction of your "taint" depends much upon the sort of mental clothes you wear and the way in which you "taint" yourself.

But the Omaha taint is clearly enough, an everyday business matter. For forty five years, by and with the consent of Omaha, this Wilson woman conducted her place. That is to say that Omaha was her silent partner. Omaha consented to the taint. That the profits are a million shows that, for a city of its size, Omaha consented a whole lot and it is pretty late for her to be very praiseworthy in the matter of dividing the business profits.—Madison State Journal.

Investigate Country Schools.

It is said that country schools in Wisconsin have badly deteriorated and as a consequence Supt. Carey is going to investigate the matter. Among those who will assist in the work is Prof. M. H. Jackson, principal of the Wood County Normal of this city.

The information that the country schools have deteriorated will be quite a shock to a good many people, as the general public has been led to think by advertisements in general that not only country schools, but schools in general, have made great strides in the way of improvement and that the improvement has been in the form of a steady advancement.

Once in awhile some old fogey, who probably has not attended school for the past twenty years, has had the offortunity to make the statement that the schools are not what they were when he was a boy, but he has been laughed at and told that he was behind the times, so far behind, in fact, that he really didn't know what a school was any more and consequently if he did not want to expose his ignorance he had better keep still on the subject. While probably not convinced, he may at least have been silenced, and thus the educators have had pretty much their own way in the matter, assisted possibly, by a few progressive citizens in each community.

A Sad Case.

Merrill Herald Rep.

The American people are humiliated at the end of the spectacle of their president going about the country, begging for votes. This is a new departure of American presidents. Grant, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt were not nominated but they made no efforts to get the re-nomination. So with the presidents before the war. Never in American history has the occupant of the presidential chair so far forgot the dignity of this high office as to go about the country and beg for votes. Not till William Howard Taft, who has disgraced the presidential office, has this humiliating spectacle been witnessed.

Some More Tainted Money.

Omaha is greatly excited over the question of acceptance by the council of $100,000 worth of property for emergency hospital purposes from Anna Wilson, long keeper of a notorious resort, who is said to be seventy-six years old, "retired" and worth a million. It's tainted property, they cry.

If it were Rockefeller offering $250,000 for a school, provided Omaha raise another $250,000, or Carnegie offering $100,000 for a library, provided another $100,000 were raised, Omaha would probably feel obligated. Yet, the business methods of these women have driven more men and women wrong than that hospital will ever hold or Anna Wilson ever saw. Sanction of your "taint" depends much upon the sort of moral clothes you wear along the way in which you "bait" yourself.

But the Omaha taint is, clearly enough, an everyday business matter. For forty-five years, by and with the consent of Omaha, this Wilson woman conducted her place. That is to say that Omaha was her silent partner. Omaha consented to the taint. That the profits are a million shows that, for a city of its size, Omaha consented a whole lot, and it is pretty late for her to be very praiseworthy in the matter of dividing the business profits.—Madison State Journal.

Investigate Country Schools.

It is said that country schools in Wisconsin have sadly degenerated and as a consequence Sept. Carey is going to investigate the matter. Among those who will assist in the work is Prof. M. H. Jackson, principal of the Wood County Normal of this city.

The information that the country schools have degenerated will be quite a shock to a good many people, as the general public has been led to think by educators in general that not only country schools, but schools in general, have made great strides in the way of improvement, and that the improvement has been in the form of a steady advancement.

Once in awhile some old fogey, who probably has not attended school for the past twenty years, has had the effrontery to make the statement that the schools are not what they were when he was a boy, but he has been laughed at and told that he was behind the times, so far behind, in fact, that he really didn't know what a school was any more, and consequently if he did not want to expose his ignorance he had better keep still on the subject. While probably not convinced, he may at least have been silenced, and thus the educators have had pretty much their own way in the matter, assisted possibly, by a few progressive citizens in each community.

A Sad Case.

Marcell Morad, Rep.
The American people are humiliated at the sight and spectacle of their president going about the country, begging for votes. This is a new departure of American presidents. Grant, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt were re-nominated but they made no efforts to get the re-nomination. So with the presidents before the war. Never in American history has the occupant of the presidential chair so forgot the dignity of this high office as to go about the country begging for votes. Not till William Howard Taft, who has disgraced the presidential office, has this humiliating spectacle been witnessed.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

Grand Rapids People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

—The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, offensive urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect of warnings and delay is danger of dropsy, bright's disease, or dropsy. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Grand Rapids proof.

H. J. Glase, Eighth St. S., Grand Rapids, Wis., says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills has been so satisfactory that I can highly recommend them. My back was weak and my kidneys did not do their work properly. Nothing helped me until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. I am grateful to this remedy for restoring me to good health."

Have Filed Their Bond.

A bond of $50,000, signed by individual parties as sureties, has been filed with the city clerk at Madison by the Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Street Railway Co., and active construction work on the Madison city line was commenced immediately. Although the council required a bond of only $15,000, the company filed one of $50,000. Most of the bond holders are tax payers of Portage.

The bond is required for the purpose of saving the city harmless from any damage that may be done by reason of the tearing up of the streets. It is stated that the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, but all the company expects to do at that end of the line this season is to complete the track from the starting point to the Madison city limits.

JOHNSON & HILL CO.'S TABLE TALK

The Grapes As a Food is UNexcelled.

—The nutritive value of the juice of our Concord Grape is 22.2. Whole milk contains 20.6, white of eggs 14.4, potatoes on an average of 25.1, beef tea 7.5.

Note for a moment the comparative nutritive value of these foods. As an article of food, the Concord Grape is as staple as wheat.

"The domestic uses of the grape are many. Nothing more refreshing than a well laid platter of fresh, ripe grapes on the breakfast, lunch, or dinner table. Nothing more refreshing as a drink than the unfermented juice, mixed or unmixed with other fruit juices. Pies, puddings, sauces, jellies, jellies and jellies with various other preparations offer wide opportunity to the skillful cook for the use of grape juice."

If you haven't the receipt for making grape juice, we will furnish it on request.

NOT IN GOOD TASTE.

Should a man go about with a suitcase bearing printed notices that he had been as far away from home as California, and had been to New York more than once and stayed at a hotel charging "three dollars a day and a uniform" or "patronized by wealth and fashion"—or should he employ some one to announce such facts at railroad stations, or at country houses where he arrives with his luggage to spend the weekend, he would be considered "impossible." Yet this is the spirit in which labeled luggage is carried who carry it, more than the Louisville Courier-Journal. And that is why they are not only willing, but anxious, to give foreign hotels advertising space upon their trunks, boxes and bags. Braggings in red, white and green letters of having crossed the Atlantic—or the Pacific—and having been quarantined at high priced hotels while abroad is not very good taste. It may be said truly enough that many travelers preferred a "kip bag" before the institution of the label advertisement, but they could at least pretend modesty and assert that they did not like old luggage for its traveled appearance, but disliked new bags because of the attention they attracted. The only escape for the bearer of his belabored luggage is to assert that he objects to the custom.

Awakening China has taken another leaf from the experience book of the progressive west. She is going to establish the playground in her cities. It was during the recent ravages of the plague in the crowded empire that some of the more enlightened of her rulers made the observation that western civilization was free from such wide-spread destruction of life as China had witnessed, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. When they sought an explanation of the freedom of western peoples from deadly epidemics, they did not look far until they found it in the attention given to producing healthful living conditions. First of all the recent improvements they decided to make was that of the scattering of breathing spots in the cities. Now Antung is to have a playground operated on the most modern of American plans. Public subscription provided for the purchase of a large tract of land, which is being divided in such a way as to meet the demands of every class of the city's population.

STOLYPIN IS DEAD

PREMIER ASSASSINATED AT OPERA HOUSE IN KIEV. CUMBERS TO WOUNDS.

HIS DEATH IS PEACEFUL

Passing of Russia's "Iron Man" Causes Jews by Thousands to Flee Country—Hundreds of Assassins' Friends Taken Into Custody.

Kiev, Dec. 11.—Peter A. Stolypin is dead from bullet wounds received at the hands of Dmitri Bogrov, a Jewish lawyer, during a gala performance at the municipal theater. With the passing of Russia's "Iron Man" the emperor faces a situation which all the bewildering underground resources of the czar are not able to cope with.

Stolypin, a man more than a half-century old, was a Russian black history, a living link between the country in its infancy and the present. He was the only man in the government circles, where official search is being made for others of the revolutionary band of which Bogrov is believed to be a member.

Every known acquaintance of Stolypin has been arrested. More than 200 of his friends, among them many prominent lawyers, are in prison. Stolypin, plunged into mental delirium by the news of his victim's death, is furnishing the police with every detail of the circumstances leading up to his crime. He is said to have revealed the names of other high officials marked for death and extra precautions are being taken to guard these persons from assassination. Bogrov had maintained an attitude of indifference up to the time of the premier's first slaying, but when told that M. Stolypin could not live the prisoner became dependent and talked freely of his act.

Kiev is practically under martial law. Armed cosacs are patrolling the streets and few of the residents venture out of doors, fearing random assaults. The streets about the opera house where the premier died have been closed to all traffic. The secret police are alert to detect the first indication of a revolutionary uprising consequent upon the death of the man whose summary ministrations caused him to be violently hated and feared by the terrorists.

Almost until the last the premier was conscious and his last words were: "I am not afraid of death. I am only afraid of the pain."

Toward the end Stolypin suffered from a general paralysis of the lower limbs. He remained in bed until he was taken to the opera house on a stretcher. He died peacefully, surrounded by several of his relatives and state officials.

Fourteen Are Hurt—Car Piloted by Lee Oldfield Plunges Through Fence at Spectator Speed.

Syracuse, N. Y.—On a track which had been sprinkled for the benefit of President Taft, who had expressed a desire to make a circuit of the race course at the state fair grounds, a Knipp car, driven by Lee Oldfield, crashed a tire during a race and crashed through a fence surrounding the track. The machine, which was traveling at terrific speed, plunged into a throng of spectators, killing nine persons and injuring fourteen. The president had left the grounds before the accident.

Oldfield, who was injured, is being guarded by an officer in a city hospital, and as soon as he recovers will be arrested.

Six of the nine victims were killed outright, and three others were so badly injured that they died on the way to the hospital.

The accident happened during the forty-seventh mile of the fifty-mile race. Oldfield was a big Indian, half Indian and half white, with a head like a bull. He had a bad cold and his car for over twenty-seven miles, but it did not blow out until the race was within three miles of the finish. At the time the tire exploded, Dr. Palma and Oldfield were neck and neck, and Oldfield just taken the turn at a terrific speed. Then the spectators at a distance of about a mile saw a crash that was heard all over the field.

JUDGE GROSSCUP TO QUIT

Appellate Jurist Will Resign From Bench in October—Plans Active Public Life.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Stenger Grosscup, judge of the United States circuit court and a member of the United States circuit court of appeals for this district, will send his resignation from the bench to President Taft early in October.

This announcement, absolutely unexpected to members of the bench and bar and to the public generally, was made by the jurist.

In a statement dated for the press he gave the following explanation of his decision to retire:

"I wish more freedom, not only as an individual, but as a citizen. The world which is trying to catch up with the world's radically changed economic conditions. The 'formative' period is approaching. Next year's presidential election will, I believe, be the last one on the old lines. And the settlement for the future will come not through the courts of law, but through the courts of public opinion."

"I wish an office—except never again to hold office—but I wish greater freedom than the bench gives me to do my part in this court of public opinion."

"I expect, of course, to re-enter the practice of law—an idle life would be an unhappy one—but to practice law is not too strenuous a way."

BANK ROBBERED OF $315,000

Five Cracksmen Blow Safe at New Westminster, B. C., and Bind Chinese Cashier and Escape.

New Westminster, B. C.—Five master cracksmen, in flight with $315,000 in gold and bills stolen from the vault of the Bank of Montreal here, are being sought by the police, who have as their only clue the story of a frightened Chinese caretaker who was bound to the robbers as soon as he entered the building.

Content with the bills of large denomination and the gold they could easily transport, they left on the watchman's bed $20,000 in gold, $16,000 in small coins and bills scattered about. When Chong Koo, the caretaker, entered the building, and was captured, bound and gagged, the robbers had completed their work. The Chinese worked himself free after the bandits had departed and notified the police.

GOING TO BE A STRIKE-OUT

ALL SPAIN UNDER MARTIAL LAW; TROOPS SHOOT DOWN BILBOA RIOTERS.

GENERAL STRIKE IS CALLED

Alfonso Signs Decree Suspending Constitutional Guarantees—Republican Plot Said to Have Condemned Weyler; Cities Seethe With Mob.

Madrid, Dec. 11.—King Alfonso has signed a decree suspending the constitutional guarantees, a general railroad strike has been called, the nation is practically under martial law and the fall of the Spanish throne is threatened.

These drastic measures bring to a crisis the revolution agitation which has been fermenting for several months. In the labor strikes the government recognizes an attempt to overthrow King Alfonso and establish a republic and the measures of suppression will be sharp and swift.

Disorder is reported from every corner of Spain. The revolution is gaining headway at an alarming rate, despite the proclamation of bayonet rule. Great excitement prevails in government circles. The railroads of the country will be tied up as well as most of the manufacturing in the industrial sections. Thousands of men will be idle.

President Canallas announces that the outbreaks at Valencia and Barcelona were the first step in a well planned revolutionary plot, the details of which were subsequently learned by the police. The assassination of General Weyler, captain-general of Catalonia, was to have been accomplished at once and other officials were marked for death. Several of the conspirators have been arrested.

Valencia has been under martial law for two days and the city has been in a state of anarchy. The republicans gained the upper hand, but the strikers collected to the adjacent town of Cullera, where they murdered a judge and wounded several other officials who had been engaged in the trial of those who had been arrested.

The situation is acute at Bilbao, Saragossa, Cadix, Huelva, Seville and Gijon, where riots have occurred. A mob stormed the jail at Bilbao in an attempt to free the prisoners and their purpose was frustrated only by a volley from the troops. Twenty-six were wounded.

The execution of Professor Ferrer in 1909 is being raised as an issue by the revolutionary leaders with tremendous effect.

Strikes in Spain Spread
Alfonso's Throne Is Threatened by Labor Upheavals—Martial Law Proclaimed in Many Cities.

Madrid.—Anarchy reigns throughout Spain as the result of general labor upheavals in most of the large cities and the end of the monarchy is freely predicted by leaders of the near-revolution.

Martial law has been proclaimed in several cities, but there are not enough loyal troops to keep order and rioting is reported from all parts.

The revolutionary movement, which began with the general strike in Bilbao, is threatening the entire country. The railroad men taken by the Premier Canallas in declaring martial law in the centers of disturbance appears only to have aggravated the tollers.

There have been numerous clashes between troops and strikers and the encounters frequently have been marked by bloodshed, especially in Bilbao.

WILEY IS UPHELD

PRESIDENT OVERRULES RECOMMENDATIONS OF BOARD.

Taft's Decision Says the Broader Issues Raised May Require More Radical Action.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft made public a memorandum which completely vindicates Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, from the charges preferred against that official by a cabal in the department of agriculture and severely condemns persons responsible for the trouble to which the pure food expert has been subjected.

Mr. Taft declares his purpose to overrule the recommendation of the personnel board of the department and Attorney General Wickham and concludes with this significant reference to the house inquiry into the charges against the chief of the chemistry bureau:

"The broader issues raised by the investigation which have a much weightier relation than this one to the general efficiency of the department, may require much more radical action than the question I have considered and decided."

This is regarded as a forecast of summary measures as the president returns to Washington in November.

In his opinion making it known that the "condign punishment" for Doctor Wiley, which Mr. Wickham held to be necessary, will not be meted out, the president voices no word of criticism for the chemist, but many a word of praise. There is no indication in it that Mr. Taft feels that he "turns down" the attorney general by not accepting his recommendations. He explains that Mr. Wickham's findings in the case were made with less complete data than that before him when he took it up.

Johnson Railroaded, Is CRY
Confessed Slayer of Madison (Wis.) Girl Is Innocent in Opinion of Sheriff.

Madison, Wis.—That John A. Johnson was railroaded to the penitentiary for the murder of Annie Lemberger is the belief of thousands of Madison people, who are demanding that the case be reopened. Sheriff Brown, who took Johnson to prison, stated that in his opinion the Lemberger case is not yet solved and that Johnson is not the murderer. He indicated that other arrests may be made.

The sheriff and the police are still making an investigation in the vicinity of the Lemberger home in the hope that they will be able to find the missing link now.

It is reported that the Lemberger girl was insured for $200 and that this amount was recently increased to $500.

Governor Plasket and Council of State Officials Check Up Votes Cast in Recent Liquor Balloting.

Augusta, Me.—Governor Plasket and the council of state officials which checked up on the votes cast in the recent election, said their report showed a majority of 26 for repeal of the prohibition clause of the state constitution. Some doubt still remains as to the correctness of the returns and Governor Plasket announced that city and town clerks would be given 20 days to check the results.

With the result standing so close, a correction in the vote in any of the several towns might be sufficient to turn the tide against repeal.

Chief of these structures will be a new dormitory capable of accommodating 160 students, to be built on University avenue between Chubb and Lathrop halls and having a front facing Park street. It will be connected by a footway with the building between Chubb and Lathrop. Its cost will be $150,000. The home economics building will cost $115,000 and will have a site east of Agricultural hall, facing south on Linden drive. It will be three stories high. The university extension work will be centered in this building. GRAND RAPIDS, WIS.

NOT IN GOOD TASTE.

Should a man go about with a suit case bearing printed notices that he had been as far away from home as California, and had been to New York more than once and stopped at a hotel charging "three dollars a day and upward" or "patronized by wealth and fashion"—or should he employ someone to announce such facts at railroad stations, or at country houses where he arrives with his luggage to spend the week-end, he would be considered "impossible." Yet this is the spirit in which label-adorned luggage is carried about by more than half of those who carry it, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. And that is why they are not well willing, but anxious, to give foreign labels advertising space upon their trunks, boxes and bags. Braggings in red, white and green letters of having crossed the Atlantic—or the Pacific—and having been quartered at high-priced hotels while abroad is not very good taste. It may be said truly enough that many travelers preferred a rusty and well-worn portmanteau or "kip bag" before the institution of the label advertisement, but they could at least plead modesty and assert that they did not like old luggage for its traveled appearance, but disliked new bags because of the attention they attracted. The only escape for the bearer of label-plastered baggage is to assert that he objects to the custom.

Awakening China has taken another leap from the experience book of the progressive west. She is going to establish playgrounds in her cities. It was during the recent ravages of the plague in the crowded empire that some of the more enlightened of her rulers made the observation that western civilization was free from such widespread destruction of life as China had witnessed, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. When they sought an explanation of the freedom of western peoples from deadly epidemics, they did not look far until they found it in the attention given to producing healthful living conditions. First of all the recent improvements they decided to seize was that of the scattering of breathing spots in the cities. Now Antung is to have a playground operated on the most modern of American plans. Public subscription provided for the purchase of a large tract of land, which is being fitted in such a way as to meet the demands of every class of the city's population.

STOLYPIN IS DEAD

PREMIER ASSASSINATED AT OPERA HOUSE IN KIEV SUCCESSORS TO WOUNDS.

HIS DEATH IS PEACEFUL

Passing of Russia's "Iron Man" Cause of Death Disclosed—Jews by Thousands to Flee Country—Hundreds of Assassins' Friends Taken into Custody.

Kiev.—Premier Peter A. Stolypin is dead from bullet wounds received at the hands of Dimitri Bogroff, a Jewish Jew, during a gala performance at the municipal theater.

With the passing of Russia's "Iron Man" the emperor faces a situation which all the bewildering underground resources of the czar are at work to meet.

Jews, fearing a massacre more violent than any yet recorded in Russia's black history, are fleeing from the country in hordes. Hundreds left the province of Kiev immediately after the hearing of the premier's death, and the news reaches the outlying provinces are crossing the borders for safety. The utmost excitement prevails in the government centers, where diligent search is being made for others of the revolutionary band of which Bogroff is believed to be a member.

Every known acquaintance of Bogroff has been arrested. More than 200 of his friends, among them many prominent lawyers, are in prison. Bogroff, plunged into mental delirium by the news of his victim's death, is furnishing the police with every detail of the circumstances leading up to his crime. He is said to have revealed the names of other high officials marked for death and extra precautions are being taken to guard these persons from assassination. Bogroff had maintained an attitude of confidence up to the time of the premier's first sinking spell, but when told that Mr. Stolypin had not yet been arrested, he became dependent and talked freely of his plot.

Kiev is practically under martial law. Armed Cossacks are patrolling the streets and few of the residents venture out of doors, fearing arrest as suspects. The streets about the manitara are closed to all traffic. The police are alert to detect the first indication of a revolutionary uprising, consequential upon the death of the man whose summary methods caused him to be viciously hated and feared by the terrorists.

Almost until the last the premier was conscious, and for half an hour his wife stood by his bedside.

Toward the end Stolypin suffered greatly. He groaned incessantly and threw himself about on the couch on which he lay. Finally the heart action became weaker, and as the body grew cold, the premier realized that death was overtaking him. At a final interval, the premier administered extreme unction. The Metropolitan Flavian blessed and consoled him in his last moments. Frequently he called: "Give me the letter. Take it away. Give me a red pencil." His last words were: "Let me. Light up."

Half an hour before his death Stolypin called the doctors to turn him on his side. He died peacefully, surrounded by several of his relatives and state officials.

Fourteen Are Hurt—Car Piloted by Lee Oldfield Plunges Through Fence at Terrific Speed.

Syracuse, N. Y.—On a track which had been sprinkled for the benefit of President Taft, who had expressed a desire to make a circuit of the race course at the state fair grounds, a Knox car, driven by Lee Oldfield, slipped a tire during a race and crashed through a fence surrounding the track. The machine, which was traveling at terrific speed, plunged into a crowd of onlookers, killing nine persons and injuring fourteen. The president had left the grounds before the accident.

Oldfield, who was injured, is being guarded by an officer in a city hospital, and as soon as he recovers will be arrested.

Six of the nine victims were killed outright, and three others were so badly injured that they died on the way to the hospital.

The accident happened during the forty-seventh mile of the fifty-mile race. Oldfield was a lap behind Ralph De Palma and was running even with him. Oldfield had had a bad tire on his car for over twenty-seven miles, but it did not blow out until the race was within three miles of the finish.

At the time the tire exploded De Palma and Oldfield were neck and neck. They had just taken the turn at a terrific speed that had the spectators a minute in a frenzy. Then came a crash that was heard all over the field.

JUDGE GROSSCUP TO QUIT

Appellate Jurist Will Resign From Bench in October—Plans Active Public Life.

Chicago.—Peter Stenger Grosscup, judge of the United States circuit court, is a member of the United States circuit court of appeals for this district, will send his resignation from the bench to President Taft early in October.

This announcement, absolutely unexpected to members of the bench and bar and to the public generally, was made by the jurist.

In a statement dictated for the press he gave the following explanation of his decision to retire:

"I wish more freedom, not only as an individual, but as a citizen. The world politically is trying to catch up with the world's radicalism. The economic conditions of the world are approaching. Next year's presidential election will, I believe, be the last one on the old times. And the settlement for the future will come not through the courts of law, but through the courts of public opinion."

"I wish no office—except never again to hold office—but I wish greater freedom than the bench gives to do my part in this court of public opinion."

"I expect, of course, to re-enter the practice of law—an idle life would be an unhappy one—but to practice law is not too strenuous a way."

BANK ROBBED OF $315,000

Five Cracksmen Blow Safe at New Westminster, B. C. Bind Chinese, Caretaker and Escape.

New Westminster, B. C.—Five masked cracksmen, in the city of New Westminster, B. C., stole $315,000 in gold and bills stolen from the vault of the Bank of Montreal here, are being sought by the police, who have as their only clue the story of a frightened Chinese caretaker who was bound by the robbers as soon as he entered the building.

Content with the bills of large denomination and the gold they could easily transport, they left on the watchman's bed $20,000 in gold, while in the locked vault they left $15,000 in small coins and bills scattered about. When Chong Koh, the caretaker, entered the building, and was captured, bound and gagged, the robbers had completed their work. The Chinese worked himself free after the bandits had departed and notified the police.

GOING TO BE A STRIKE-OUT?

CIVIL WAR PERILS

ALL SPAIN UNDER MARTIAL LAW; TROOPS SHOOT DOWN BILBOA RIOTERS.

GENERAL STRIKE IS CALLED

Alfonso Signs Decree Suspending Constitutional Guarantees—Republican Plot Said to Have Condemned Weyler; Cities Seethe With Mob.

Madrid.—King Alfonso has signed a decree suspending the constitutional guarantees, a general railroad strike has been called, the nation is practically under martial law and the fall of the Spanish throne is threatened.

These drastic measures bring to a crisis the revolution agitation which has been fermenting for several months. In the labor strikes the government recognizes an attempt to overthrow King Alfonso and establish a republic and the measures of suppression will be sharp and swift.

Disorder is reported from every corner of Spain. The revolution is gaining momentum at an alarming rate, despite the proclamation of bayonet rule. Great excitement prevails in government circles. The railroads of the country will be tied up as well as most of the manufacturing in the industrial sections. Thousands of men will be idle.

Premier Canalejas announces that the outbreak at Valencia and Barcelona, the first step in a well planned revolutionary plot, the details of which were subsequently learned by the police. The assassination of General Weyler, captain-general of Catalonia, was to have been accomplished at once and other officials were marked for death. Several of the conspirators have been arrested.

Valencia has been under martial law for two days and the city has been in a riotous tumult. The authorities gained the upper hand, but the strikers proceeded to the adjacent town of Gullera, where they murdered a judge and wounded several other officials who had been engaged in the trial of those who had been arrested.

The situation is acute at Bilbao. Saragossa, Cadiz, Huelva, Seville and Gijon, where riots have occurred. A mob stormed the jail at Bilbao in an attempt to free the prisoners and their attack was frustrated only by a volley from the troops. Twenty-six were wounded.

The execution of Professor Ferrer in 1909 is being raised as an issue by the revolutionary leaders with the menacing effect.

STRIKES IN SPAIN SPREAD

Alfonso's Throne Is Threatened by Labor Uproar—Martial Law Proclaimed in Many Cities.

Madrid.—Anarchy reigns throughout Spain as the result of general labor upheavals in most of the large cities, and the end of the monarchy is freely predicted by leaders of the near-revolution.

Martial law has been proclaimed in several cities, but there are not enough loyal troops to keep order and rioting is reported from all parts.

The revolutionary movement, which began with the general strike in Bilbao, is threatening the entire country. The railroad men are on the point of striking. The step taken by Premier Canalejas in declaring martial law in the centers of disturbance appears only to have aggravated the toilers.

There have been numerous clashes between troops and strikers and the encounters frequently have been marked by bloodshed, especially in Bilbao.

UNIVERSITY PLANS MORE BUILDINGS

College to Spend Over $50,000 in Construction Work.

WOMEN TO HAVE DORMITORY

Home Economics Structure and Addition to the Library Will Be Built—Wing to Gymnasium Is Provided.

Madison.—A dormitory for women students, a building for home economics, and university extension work, an annex to the armory are included in the building program of the University of Wisconsin for the next year. Much of the work will be under way before winter. The buildings will conform in local and style as much as possible to the general scheme of the university's future.

The building plan is marked by handsome provision for women students. Chief of these structures will be a new dormitory capable of accommodating 150 students, to be built on University avenue between Chadbourne and Lathrop halls. Its cost will be $150,000. The home economics building will cost $115,000 and will have a site east of Agricultural hall, facing south on Linden drive. It will be three stories high. The university extension work will be centered in this structure. The agricultural chemistry building will be erected on University avenue opposite the forest products laboratory, facing south and in line with the agronomy building. An auditorium seating 500 persons will be a feature. The cost of the new building will be $100,000. The addition to the main chemistry building will be on the west side of that building, facing Charter street. For this work there is an appropriation of $70,000.

The annex to the armory and gymnasium will be on the east side of the building, one story high and the same length as the building. It will house various games of the students. It will have a running track 1/2 mile wide, with 12 laps to the mile, and space for indoor baseball, handball and other sports. The first floor of the present gymnasium will be remodeled and new lockers installed. The main floor will be reserved for military drills and gymnastics will be conducted solely in the cage on the top floor. Work will begin soon.

This has been the result of the construction of the new wing to the State Historical library, which will cost $165,000. Additional stack room for 150,000 books will be provided, and the state museum will receive more room as a result.

Co-Operate With County.

The Wisconsin highway commission had an extensive exhibit at the state fair this year. The principal features being moving pictures showing road models showing various types of roads and a collection of road-building machinery exhibited on the commission's plat by various manufacturers. The United States office of public roads has assisted by furnishing models and photographs of roads and working models of a stone crusher and roller.

The delegates from the Wisconsin county board and park commission appeared in regard to the improvement of the Janesville plank road and the approval by the commission of the plans that the county has adopted for this work. The commission expressed its desire to co-operate in every way possible with the county board in the prosecution of this improvement and while no definite action was taken as to some phases of the matter, it was so arranged that work can be pushed forward.

Would Prevent Conflict.

The Wisconsin industrial commission has arranged for a conference at Chicago on October 13 with various state commissions interested in work men's concerns. The purpose of the conference is to confer with the congressional committee on employers' liability and workmen's compensation in order to reach an understanding that will prevent the proposed federal laws and the state laws from conflicting.

Baby Cab Case Argued.

The justice of the rule of the Southern Wisconsin Railroad company in prohibiting baby cabs from Madison street cars, unless folded and encased, was argued before the rate commission. The company claims the practice militates against the maintaining of its schedules.

State Fair to Break Even.

The state fair of 1911 will break about even, according to the apportionment from the state of $15,000, according to members of the board.

There was a balance at the beginning of the year in the hands of the board of $18,000. Of this about $2,000, as near as could be ascertained, had been used. This, in case the present proved correct, will leave the board with a balance in the hands of the state treasurer of about $23,000 or $24,000.

1911 Blue Book Out November 1.

The blue book of 1911, the thirty-sixth volume of this state official publication, will be out about November 1, according to W. O. Fietzsch, chief clerk in the office of the Wisconsin industrial commission, who compiled the book. The book this year will consist of 800 pages, just two-thirds of the number of the last volume. The reduction in size is due to the fact that much industrial statistics heretofore included in the publication has been omitted.

Patrol Law Is Praised.

The state board of control will hold its quarterly parole meeting at the state industrial school for boys at Waubesa. Eighty have been asked to be released and it is probable that the request of one-half on them will be granted.

WETS WIN MAINE ELECTION

Governor Plafated and Council of State Official Check Up Votes Cast in Recent Liquor Balloting.

Augusta, Me.—Governor Plafated and the council of state officials which checked up on the votes cast in the recent election, said their findings showed a majority of 45 for repeal of the prohibition clause of the state constitution. Some doubt still remains as to the correctness of the returns and Governor Plafated announced that city and town clerks would be given 20 days to check the results.

With the result standing so close, a correction in the vote in any of the several towns might be sufficient to turn the tide against repeal.

Fierce Battle in Mexico.

Mexico City.—One hundred and seventy-eight were killed and 215 wounded in a battle on the banks of the Grijalva river, near the city of San Cristobal, between a force of 3,000 Chiriquian Indians and 1,500 Maderistas.

To Probe High Living Cost.

Where does the consumer's dollar go? An answer to this question will be attempted by the state commission created by the last legislature, ostensibly to work out some uniform system of bookkeeping, but which under its power may investigate numerous other things connected with the welfare of the commonwealth; and it is understood that Governor McAdams, who is the father of the idea, purposes through this commission to make living cheaper and better for the residents of Wisconsin.

One of the first questions the commission will take into consideration is the method of placing foodstuffs on the market, with a view of ascertaining just how much the producer receives from the middleman and the ratio of profit exacted by the retailer from the ultimate consumer.

Considerable data already have been obtained. Thus it has been learned that the bulk of potatoes which are raised in Milwaukee at an upward of $2 a bushel, the average had been bought for 30 cents and less from the grower last fall and stored for spring and summer consumption, so that the farmer in truth received only a little of the high price paid by the consumer. Again, market men in Milwaukee continued to charge high prices for meats weeks after the wholesalers had announced radical reductions.

In this connection the board will study the co-operative markets, which bring the producers and the consumers in closest relationship, in Canada and Ireland, for instance. The latter cities the most notable like Baltimore, Nashville, Mobile and New Orleans, will also be studied, and it is possible that communities will be urged to adopt like systems as a means of eliminating the commission merchant and the retailer.

Former Senator Hutton, who has been placed at the head of the commission, while a bachelor, says he will keep the right of the average housewife and will endeavor to make it easier for her to set the table on what the head of the family earns. He is one of the large manufacturers of the state and is thoroughly familiar with labor conditions, particularly in the woodworking trade, where wages average less than in any other industry.

He plans to throw the meetings of the commission, which will be held in various parts of the state, wide open with a view of getting at facts at first hand, and will accept any and all suggestions that can be embraced in the work of the board. He is particularly desirous of hearing from the farmers, who in their past have been charged by commission men with being principally responsible for the high cost of living.

State Aid for Roads.

Although county clerks are not required by law to report until October 1, the amounts of the various towns and counties for state aid improvements, preliminary reports are already in from many of them. Information received from this and other sources would indicate that thirty-five counties will ask state aid in excess of their apportionment and thirty-two will ask for amounts less than their apportionment. Four counties have taken no action.

Those counties in which the towns have failed to vote any money, or enough money to exhaust the state aid available for the county, still have a chance to get state aid if the county board at a special meeting held on or before October 1 votes a county tax equal to two-thirds the cost of the desired road improvements.

The proceeds of the county tax, together with the state money, may be spent on the county system of prospective state highways at a point selected by the county board or its committee. Money voted by the towns, together with the county and state money drawn by it, must be spent at points chosen by the board, as directed by the people of the town or by the town board.

Fair Board Takes Big Risk.

When Lincoln Beachey, Curtiss aviator, left the ground in front of the state fair park grand stand to try for an altitude record, he was offered $1,000 he was flying under unusual circumstances.

His machine, in which he has performed daredevil feats during the week for state fair visitors, was attached by Sheriff Arnold, of Adams County, to a crowd of spectators, as part of the proceedings in a damage suit for $10,000 brought against the Curtiss Exhibition company of New York.

is generally conceded that Guido is a Benedictine monk, and that he is a great writer of music of the 15th century. The claim is set that he was born near Paris, and granted to Atezo. He wrote the "micrologus," but Grove discards many of the pretensions which have been formulated concerning Guido's achievements. It appears, says Grove, that Cracklin' Bread.

In a divorce case at Mexico, the plaintiff complained his wife's cooking and complained that she put "cracklin' bread" before him to eat. His lawyer was laying great stress upon this point and was particularly severe with the bread, which is peculiarly palatable to native Missourians. When Judge Barnett interrupted him with the question:

"Mr. Attorney, did you ever eat cracklin' bread?"

"No, sir," came the prompt and somewhat emphatic reply.

"I thought not," said the judge, and there was a ripple of laughter all over the courtroom, which showed that "cracklin' bread" was not foreign to the appetites of those present. Inci-

Useful as well as ornamental are the various pieces and one may have picture frames of varying sizes, quaint flower boxes, funny Dutch coffee pots, saucers, sets for sugar and cream, fancy baskets that will do for many things, serving spoons, grape scissors, table knives and tea caddies—quite a list, one sees!

He wrote the "Micrologus," but Grove discards many of the pretensions which have been formulated concerning Guido's achievements. It appears, says Grove, that

Have Filed Their Bond.
A bond of $50,000, signed by individual parties as sureties, has been filed with the city clerk at Madison by the Oshkosh & Wisconsin Valley Street Railway Co., and active construction work on the Madison city line was commenced immediately. Although the council required a bond of only $15,000, the company filed one of $50,000. Most of the bond holders are tax payers of Portage.

The bond is required for the purpose of saving the city harmless from any damage that may be done by reason of the tearing up of the streets. It is stated that the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, but all the company expects to do at that end of the line this season is to complete the track from the starting point to the Madison city limits.

—The nutritive value of the juice of our Concord Grapes is 28.2. Whole milk contains 20.6, white of eggs 11.4, potatoes on an average of 25.1, best tea 7.5.

The domestic uses of the grape are many. Nothing more refreshing than a well laid plate of fresh, ripe grapes on the breakfast, lunch or dinner table. Nothing more refreshing as a drink than the unfermented juice, mixed or unadorned with other fruit juices. Pies, puddings, sauces, jellies, jellies and jellies with various other preparations offer wide opportunity to the skillful cook for the use of grape juice.

If you haven't the receipt for making grape juice, we will furnish it on request. Kruger.

What Every Mother Knows

For one thing she knows when boys' clothes are right. Another is the place where she can find exactly what she wants when she wants it, and at the price she wants to pay. And where everything is up to date and the best of its kind it is safe to say she will come again. Because of these things, and the fact that we sell the EXTRAGOOD make, we are enrolling the mothers of this city as permanent customers. Come and see.

Have Filed Their Bond.

A bond of $50,000, signed by individual parties as sureties, has been filed with the city clerk at Madison by the Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Street Railway Co., and active construction work on the Madison city line was commenced immediately. Although the council required a bond of only $15,000, the company filed one of $50,000. Most of the bond holders are tax payers of Portage.

The bond is required for the purpose of saving the city harmless from any damage that may be done by reason of the tearing up of the streets. It is stated that the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, but all the company expects to do at that end of the line this season is to complete the track from the starting point to the Madison city limits.

JOHNSON & HILL CO.'S TABLE TALK

The Grapes As a Food is UNexcelled.

—The nutritive value of the juice of our Concord Grape is 28.2. Whole milk contains 20.6, white of eggs 14.4, potatoes on an average of 25.1, beef tea 7.5.

Note for a moment the comparative nutritive value of these foods. As an article of food, the Concord Grape is as staple as wheat.

—The domestic uses of the grape are many. Nothing more refreshing than a well laid plate of fresh, ripe grapes on the breakfast, lunch or dinner table. Nothing more refreshing as a drink than the unfermented juice, mixed or unmixed with other fruit juices. Pies, puddings, sauces, jelly, jello and janket with various other preparations offer wide opportunity to the skillful cook for the use of grape juice.

If you haven't the receipt for making grape juice, we will furnish it on request.
